WEST WARNED AGAINST WAR WITH CHINA REDS

BASEBALL CAMPAIGN TOTAL HITS $5,000

Today's Response Surprises Officials In Charge Of Drive; Contact Special Names

Confidence bordering on exuberance but tinged with a air of caution was the feeling expressed by Athletic Booster Club officials in their drive for funds to "save baseball" today.

Booster Club president Frank Ireland reported that donations and share pledges were "coming in so fast this morning, I can hardly keep track of them" as he revealed the total had reached $5,000 by noon.

Describing today's response to the $35,000 objective as "greater than believed possible," Ireland was quick to point out that every dollar was needed. "I just hope they keep coming," he said. "I feel so good—better than I have since the drive started."

Meanwhile, club director Arthur H. Cox revealed that numerous canvassers were engaged in contacting business men on the special names list compiled Tuesday.

HELPERS NEEDED

"If we could get more help, I'm certain we could cover the city in a day," Cox said. "And I'm almost positive that the business men will respond as have the public in the last two days."

The $5,000 total, mostly from the little man, is $1,000 greater than the amount announced by Booster Club officials Tuesday night.

Booths are in operation at Eaton's, Hudson's Bay and Gordon's Sporting Goods, while names of canvassers in outlying districts can be obtained from Booster Club headquarters in the Douglas Hotel.

Telephone contributions may be made by calling B 5632.

United Football Club president George Eadie requested the latest other sport to get behind the drive when he purchased a $100 share today.

It is estimated that a $20,000 total by Friday, deadline for the drive, will be acceptable to the Western International League as a bond of faith that Victoria will be able to operate a team in the league next year.

Youth Injured When Car Hits Tree Head-On

Four Victorians escaped serious injury in a violent traffic crash this afternoon at Burnside and High Streets.

One of the four, a teen-ager, Barry Grimshaw, whose home address was not known, was being treated at Jubilee Hospital at press time for injuries which officers said were not serious.

Three others in a car which smashed head-on into a tree at the intersection, were given first aid for cuts and bruises.

They are: Jimmy McMillan, 114 Eberts; Arlene Ferguson, 1239 Burnside, and Doreen Wilmore, 1700 Foul Bay.

The smash-up, in R.C.M.P. territory, was attended by Saanich police, who were unable to explain how the accident occurred.

The car was said to have been demolished.

MAYOR, ADMIRAL DISCUSS SERVICE CENTRE SITES

Mayor Claude Harrison and Rear-Admiral W. B. Creery have discussed possibility of obtaining larger premises than Prince Robert House for a united service centre.

The mayor said today the matter was still being studied but to date they have been unable to locate a better building than Robert House.

"We are of one mind on getting a place for services," said the mayor. "We would like something bigger."

Question of costly alterations as well as size enters into the Robert House use.

The mayor said it would be out of the question to build a new centre. Cost he said might be in the neighborhood of $500,000.

"If we can find a place we can then get an estimate of what is required and have something definite to lay down to Ottawa," the mayor said.

Deputy Labor Minister James F. Thomson Dies

High people in government, management and labor circles today were mourning the death Tuesday night of James Ferguson Thomson, B.C.'s deputy minister of labor.

Thomson died at Vancouver General Hospital. He had been in ill health for some time because of a heart ailment. He was away from his work three months last year due to illness but reported back in October, seemingly improved.

He was approaching his 64th birthday.

Born on the Isle of Lewis, Scotland, Thomson came to Canada about 42 years ago. He lived in Victoria for a time and then moved to Vancouver.

He was active in union matters from the start and in time became president of the Vancouver-New Westminster District Trades and Labor Council. He was business agent of the Vancouver Local No. 2404 of the Pile Drivers, Bridge, Dock and Wharf Builders' Union, and retained membership in that union to his death.

Thomson was named to the B.C. Board of Industrial Relations in 1934 and was made a full-time member of the department of labor in 1936. He was appointed deputy minister in September, 1946.

He is survived by his wife, at the family home, 500 Vancouver Street; one daughter, Ann, in training at Royal Jubilee Hospital, and three sons, Alex, George and Albert, all in Vancouver.

Labor Minister John Cates paid high tribute to his deputy's work and said word of Thomson's passing had been "a great shock."

"He was a good and faithful civil servant, and certainly had the interests of all British Columbia at heart," the minister said.

"I know he will be missed by both labor and management. He was a great help to me in administering the affairs of the department of labor, and his wise counsel and advice will be greatly missed by me."

30 WARSHIPS ORDERED TO MIDDLE EAST

British Action As Egypt Meets Big 4

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—

Britain tonight ordered 30 warships of the Home Fleet to the Mediterranean in March for combined exercises with the Mediterranean Fleet.

An Admiralty announcement said the warships will visit Malta, Britain's bastion in the Mediterranean, to take part in the exercises.

The Egyptian emergency already has sent battle units of the Mediterranean fleet to stations along the Mediterranean from Libya to Suez.

CIARO, Egypt, Jan. 30 (AP).—

An Egyptian Foreign Office spokesman indicated today that Egypt would join a Middle East defense command if her current dispute with Britain is solved to this country's satisfaction.

The spokesman said this was the "personal impression" of the new premier, Aly Maher Pasha: "If the other parts of the Egyptian case are dealt with satisfactorily from the Egyptian viewpoint, Egypt would naturally consider such participation favorable."

"The principle of participation of Egypt in a defensive Middle East pact in the framework of the charter of the United Nations is part of the whole Egyptian case."

"The National Front (government) which is now under formation at the moment will have to decide Egypt's attitude toward this question, as well as toward all other aspects of the Egyptian case."

The new premier met with ambassadors of the four powers which last October proposed that Egypt join the west in a Middle East pact to defend the Suez Canal.

The Egyptian government radio, meanwhile, announced that 300 Egyptian police and police officers taken into custody by British forces at Ismailia last week have been released and will resume duties there Thursday. Observers interpreted the move as a friendly gesture toward the new government of Premier Pasha.

The motion was filed in the House of Commons just before the start of a two-day debate on R. A. Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to put the country on its feet financially.

The motion was in the form of an amendment to one by Prime Minister Churchill asking House approval of the Butler plan.

If the Labor motion should win, Churchill would have to resign and ask for a new national election. But the Conservative majority of 14 is expected to prevail when the vote comes Thursday night.

Churchill Clarifies Statements In U.S.

Compiled From U.P., C.P. Dispatches

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill warned the West today against plunging into a war with Communist China. He said Britain had made no formal commitments for retaliation if a Korean truce were reached and then broken.

In a statement to Commons on his visit to the United States, Churchill said:

"When dangers are so much near home, one does not want to see ourselves tied down or entangled in war in Korea, still less in war in China."

Churchill said such a situation "would be as General (Omar N.) Bradley said, bring in the 'wrong war, in the wrong place, in the wrong time'."

Churchill's recent remark before the United States Congress that a breach of a Korean truce would bring "prompt, resolute and effective" action had been interpreted widely in the United States and here as meaning Britain had agreed under certain conditions to air attacks on China.

"Those words do not represent any new decisions arrived at during our visit," he said. "But they do express fully the spirit in which we shall face our difficulties together."

During the talks with President Truman, Churchill said, it was agreed that a serious situation would arise if a truce were violated.

But "the matter did not figure to any large extent in our discussions," adding that it was not wise to keep an enemy "posted on any future action that might be taken."

"We still hope that an agreement will be reached, and being reached, kept," he said.

Work In 'True Comradeship'

Churchill said the United Nations had secured a better chance of reaching an agreement with the Communists by making it plain that the U.S. and Britain are working together in "true comradeship."

He said a Korean armistice may mean the transfer of Communist strength to French Indo-China or Malaya.

Speaking of the Middle East, Churchill said:

"The burden of maintaining the control and security of the international waterway of the Suez Canal is one which must be widely shared."

His earlier suggestion that the U.S. send token forces there to support Britain's stand against ouster by Egypt met a cool reception in Washington.

As for the idea that Britain should work beside the U.S. in the Far East, and the U.S. in turn side with Britain in the Middle East, Churchill said:

"I think this should not be the subject of a bargain. Both cases should be dealt with on their merits and both cases are pretty strong when looked at on their merits."

Britain's Tory Regime Facing Confidence Vote

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP).—

Labor members of Parliament today demanded a vote of non-confidence in the Conservative government for proposing curbs on Britain's costly social services as part of a drastic economy program.

The motion was filed in the

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

When you stepped outside for a cigarette during the intermission in Richard Dyer-Bennet's folk song program Monday night and asked the boys if they like it, you got a hesitant response. "Yeah," they said, "Yeah." But they didn't say it with too much conviction. If you asked the same people at the end of the presentation, you got the same answer, only there wasn't any doubt left in their minds.

They like it. They may have wondered why. Unless they knew folk music, or music, they wouldn't have been exposed to much of Mr. Dyer-Bennet's style of singing or his material. Chances are, if they'd heard it on the radio, they'd have switched to a dance band. Maybe the concentration they put into the program at the Royal helped their appreciation. There wasn't anything to distract them, there. On the stage was a piano stool, a man and his guitar. It was a guitar, not a guitar, as in Hollywood cowboy numbers.

You listened and you found his songs growing on you. They were simple enough. Some were familiar, some strange. You compared them to Burl Ives' "Big Rock Candy Mountain" and his "Foggy Foggy Dew" that are popular in the long-playing records. You admitted both had something. Then you thought of Audrey's advance story on Dyer-Bennet and you wondered whether he and his like were modified survivors of the old troubadours or whether their revival of an old musical form represented merely a currently popular fancy.

The Old Master

If you'd read George Cronyn's story of Peire Vidal and enjoyed it, you hoped that the world would keep a place, a living place, for the counterparts of the jongleurs. They offer you something different from the impersonal voice coming from an amplifier, and even if they appear formally on the stage, they still have something of the minstrel about them.

You may have been a bit puzzled over the manner in which the Joyous Craft could be transplanted from the days of chivalry, with knights in hardware, to the present. You might have wondered what would take the place of the baronial hall dependent on the troubadour for its after-dinner entertainment. And while you knew that a new generation of Tom Tuckers are still singing for their supper, you recognized the difference between the standing they have in box-office appeal and the more elevated position of the old minstrel.

You might have wondered, too, how song was going to be kept alive in the home. There aren't too many domestic musical evenings generating around the family hearth. It's too easy to switch on the radio and hear something better, or start the record player and get the best there is on the market.

The kids still sing, of course, and just as monotonously as we did when we were their age, blasting "It Ain't Gonna Rain, No Mo' No Mo'" and "Hortense" into oblivion. And there may be the odd modern mother who croons a lullaby to a child—but if she does, she's not raising the youngsters according to the book.

Not Enough Song

With a few exceptions, men don't sing now at home or at work. "Scotty" Stewart used to rip off a few operatic arias while he was standing over a punching machine in Spencer's, but the sound only traveled to the ventilation well of the building. Most adult males are a little too sheepish to sing until they reach the "Sweet Adeline" stage and then you can't really call it singing.

Maybe a few, under provocation, would join in "The Road to the Isles," but that wouldn't come out like Dyer-Bennet's rendition of it Monday. Occasionally people like Humphrey Davy and George Stirling can lead a group in "Allouette," but you wonder—as you wonder when you hear service club men let go—if that's music.

It's a little sad, the way we look at people who sing—unless we pay money to hear them or join them around the flowing bowl. If we come on anyone going melodic just for the fun of it, we look surprised, shake our heads and think maybe he should have had one or two less.

What we need is a few more Dyer-Bennets, people who can give us the idea that song is a pleasant way to express an emotion, to convince us that maybe we ought to try it a little more ourselves. It'd be a welcome change from talk on percentages, politics and from asking acquaintances what they know for sure.

EMILY SARTAIN

Ex-Resident Wins Honors For Painting

Painter Emily Sartain, who spent five years in Victoria, has been awarded the gold medal of the Royal Horticultural Society for water-color paintings of flowers, the society announced today.

The award is the highest an artist can receive from the society, whose winter show now is in progress.

Paintings exhibited by Miss Sartain, who spent from 1939 to 1951 in Victoria and Vancouver, included water colors of wild flowers from Ontario and British Columbia.

A recognized leader among flower painters, she did not begin to paint seriously until 1932, and has never studied at any particular art school.

She had no plans when she arrived in Canada in 1939, but the sight of B.C. wild flowers prompted her to paint a representative collection. She maintained a studio in Vancouver until 1946, when she moved to Victoria.

For six years her paintings constituted an annual one-artist show in Vancouver. She also gave exhibitions in Victoria, New Westminster, Port Alberni, Calgary and Edmonton.

Her first Canadian picture was presented to Queen Elizabeth as a memento of the Royal visit to Vancouver in 1939. Another was presented to H.R.H. Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone.

On her return to her native Sussex in June, 1951, she continued her wild-flower painting and has appeared in numerous exhibitions.

PARADISE FOR LABORERS

Wages High As $756 A Week Paid Workers On Nevada Atom Test Site

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 30 (UP).—Government witnesses were expected to testify today against a contractor who charged that his workers at a Nevada atomic test site were "pirated" by a cost-plus competitor who offered wages as high as $756 a week.

Bruce W. McNeil, head of the McNeil Contracting Co. of Los Angeles, is protesting the government's action in cancelling a $617,000 contract awarded him for constructing a concrete building at the Frenchman's Flat atomic test range near Las Vegas.

The contract was voided when McNeil's firm failed to complete the job in the allotted time, but the contractor said he was unable to get workers because a cost-plus-fee competitor disrupted the labor market.

Government witnesses were called to explain the Atomic Energy Commission's stand that McNeil's firm could have completed the project on time if he had offered his workers more overtime.

McNeil testified at the A.E.C. hearing Tuesday that the building was 86 per cent complete when the government terminated his contract and gave the job to Haddock Engineers Ltd., which was operating on a cost-plus-fee contract.

He said the Haddock firm's contract enabled it to pay "ridiculously high" wages which attracted McNeil Company workers.

One plumber earned $756 in one week with the Haddock Company, McNeil said, and a cement foreman was paid $641.18 for a week's work.

Haddock carpenters earned up to $325 weekly and laborers up to $219, he charged.

Cement foreman W. L. Reddock earned an average of $141 weekly while working for the McNeil Company, the contractor said, but when he went to work for the Haddock firm, his weekly pay jumped to an average of $493.

He said he entered his bid on the project with the understanding that all contracts would be let on a competitive basis. The McNeil firm held only an ordinary contract and could not compete with the wages offered by the competitor, he said.

McNeil's father, Lawrence, testified that the overtime paid by the Haddock Company "appears to me to be overtime that was never earned. It was overtime that was never worked."

Vancouver Island Vulnerable

Vancouver Island is almost totally dependent on sea lines of communication and is in a very vulnerable position should war occur with Red Asia.

Capt. Lorenzo Attwood, R.C.N., Pacific Coast Command Chief of Staff, told members of the Victoria North Kiwanis Club Tuesday that these reasons were strong argument for a powerful Canadian Navy.

He said the Island's seven ports could be blocked by mines and Victoria could be cut off from the 200,000 gallons of petroleum it needs daily. Kitimat and the whole aluminum industry of Canada is 100 per cent dependent on the sea, added the speaker.

"We are also faced with a potential enemy of a similar strength to Germany in 1941, who has learned all the tricks or at least has the lessons of the Second World War to draw from," he said.

Ships, Capt. Attwood noted, were not available from the Royal Navy or the U.S. Navy to protect both Canadian coasts and the Dominion cannot fight any war using its productive capacity to provide the tools for others. "If we cannot keep our ports open and our shipping moving, our production level will fall to an unacceptable minimum," he said.

The Real Issues

THE CONTROVERSY OVER THE APPOINTMENT of a Canadian as Governor-General boils down to two questions: First, is the Crown to be dragged into partisan politics? Second, does the presence of a Canadian in Rideau Hall weaken the links between this nation and Britain?

Mr. St. Laurent has not attempted to dodge either question. At his historic press conference a few days ago he answered both with extraordinary candor, realizing no doubt that the Canadian people were eager for a clear statement of his views.

On the first question the Prime Minister said that no one would suggest, he thought, that Mr. Massey was unsuited, as a person, to represent the King. His personality at least does not involve the Crown in political dispute.

But supposing that some future government appoints a mere party follower to Rideau Hall, and thus undermines the stature and dignity of the Crown in Canada?

Mr. St. Laurent replies that he cannot imagine any Canadian government making such a mistake. No government of the past has allowed party politics to influence it in recommending the appointment of a Governor-General. In Mr. St. Laurent's judgment partisanship in such a matter is unthinkable.

In any case, the Canadian people would know how to deal with a government which committed such an offense. The Prime Minister rather wryly observes that in Australia an unsatisfactory appointment of this sort was made and the government which made it was soon hurled from office. That assuredly would happen here if any government sank so low as to make the Governor-General's post a reward for political service.

The second question is answered by Mr. St. Laurent with equal frankness. He says, and rightly so, believe that the appointment of a Canadian does not weaken but strengthens the ties of the Commonwealth.

That strength does not depend, of course, on any constitutional arrangement ment and if it did would be a poor hope for the Commonwealth's future. It rests almost entirely on sentiment and enlightened self-interest combined. And so far as sentiment is concerned a feeling of absolute equality between the partners of the Commonwealth is essential if that partnership is to continue and prosper.

Absolute equality of the Commonwealth members was proclaimed in the Balfour declaration of 1926 and codified in the Statute of Westminster five years later. That is the constitutional side of the matter.

As Mr. St. Laurent says, many Canadians feel that symbolically as well, Canadians should be certain in their minds that no remnants of national inferiority, however slight they may be, should remain. Hence his belief that if he had refused to appoint a Canadian as Governor-General there would have been much wider objection in this country than there is now to the appointment of Mr. Massey.

That feeling would damage the British connection. On the other hand, the sense of complete equality, both constitutionally and symbolically, removes any possibility of friction and provides the strongest kind of partnership, the union of equals in form as well as in fact.

All the constitutional difficulties have long since been removed. Now a symbol has been brought up to date, that is all. As a symbol of the Commonwealth's unity, of Canada's true feeling of partnership with Britain, the Crown through its representative here is today a stronger force, we believe, than it has ever been. The Prime Minister rightly says the nation is growing up but it is not growing away from Britain. On the contrary, its growth, both material and spiritual, adds immensely to the whole Commonwealth.

Frozen In Congress, Too

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S RENEWED request to Congress to authorize United States participation in the St. Lawrence Seaway project has met with another cold response.

Senator Tom Connally, the Texas Democrat who is chairman of the powerful foreign relations committee, this week repeated the objections that have greeted other similar requests, and added the comment that "this is not the time to spend a billion dollars on something that will be frozen over five months of the year and will be built on foreign soil."

The great eastern seaport and transportation interests in the United States which have consistently opposed American investment in the power and navigation program would appear to be still succeeding over Mr. Truman's advocacy. While Canada has set no deadline on American approval, there is reason to suppose that the present session of Congress may provide the last chance.

Ottawa has made a careful study of the project and believes Canada could by herself carry it through at a cost of some $700 millions. That would be a considerable investment for a country of this size, but both the power and seaway phases of the program would be revenue-producing. And it would be the seven months of open water, not Senator Connally's five frozen months, that would count.

While the plan to make the St. Lawrence navigable to ocean-going ships as far as the Great Lakes is largely a matter of improvement, the power portion of the scheme has become a necessity. New York State, as well as Ontario and Quebec, has urgent need of the hydro-electric output now going to waste. In the face of this fact alone, it is difficult to justify Congress' continued refusal.

Even going it alone, of course, Canada will need United States approval of the project, for the waterway involved is international. But this approval Mr. Truman has promised with better hope of fulfillment; since the measure would not have to travel the same Congressional route as the participation legislation. At this point Canada now waits. But as Mr. St. Laurent and others have made evident, the days of waiting are numbered.

Instability At The City Hall

ALD. PINFOLD HAS PLACED HIS finger on one of the disturbing features of present City Hall conditions. His announcement that there is dissension and fear among the employees indicates the disruptive influences which have entered the service with the new regime.

While that condition lasts, the taxpayers can scarcely expect the highest degree of efficiency from the departments that should be serving them. Cooperation and harmony are necessary before the City Hall can function as it should.

Mayor Harrison begs the question when he asks in what respect there is dissension and fear. He does not improve the situation when he states: "If they (the employees) are doing their work they have nothing to fear. If there are shortcomings, then they should be reported here."

The mayor is literally correct, but he does nothing to ease tension by his remarks. From reports which have appeared in the press since Jan. 1, employees may understandably feel that they are lying on a Procrustean bed. It is difficult for them to determine whether or not they fit the exact measures required of them, or if they are to be stretched or lopped off to the necessary size.

A possible solution may lie in the exact definition of the duties of the city manager. He has found what he took to be his jurisdiction invaded by the mayor and his executive committee. Until limits are set for each and are thoroughly understood by both, only confusion can result.

Mayor Harrison has come to his new post without prior council experience. He has his own ideas of the duties of a mayor. No suggestion is advanced that his intentions are not good or that he is acting in any way other than in the interests of the citizens as he sees them. He is not enthusiastic about the city manager system, according to his own admission. By his own statements, on the other hand, he has declared his willingness to see it given a fair trial.

As a conscientious servant of the public, it is now up to him to decide how fair a trial he is giving the system which his pronouncements do nothing to stabilize.

Canadians Salute Him

OFFICIAL AND PRIVATE EXPRESSIONS of regret at the departure of Earl Alexander from his position as Governor-General of Canada carry a depth of sincerity felt on few other similar occasions. For it was as few of his predecessors have done that this incumbent made himself one of us.

The then Viscount Alexander lost no time after his arrival in visiting the farthest reaches of the country in which he represented the King. He broke new official ground in traveling to the northwest and other areas usually missing from vice-regal itineraries.

Throughout his tenure of office his desire to learn more of Canada and Canadians did not flag. He took quickly to skiing, made square dancing famous by introducing Princess Elizabeth to it, and showed a keen interest in every phase of Canadian life. It is that attitude for which we will remember him, that approach for which we will always admire him. He has set a standard which will seldom be equalled.

Such activities, of course, were but the accompaniments of his duty here. But as a royal representative and diplomat he ranked equally high with Canadians. He brought to his high office a dignity and authority that was never at fault, and the occasional trivial lapses from strict protocol—such as his expressed pleasure that Churchill had become Prime Minister—served only to make his figure the more human for us.

The act of the government in bestowing upon Earl Alexander one of Canada's highest honors—membership of the Privy Council—has won wide spread approval. To the new tasks which he assumes, as defense minister of Great Britain, he will take with him the best wishes of all Canadians and the hope his promise to return to this country will not be too long in fulfillment.

LOOSE ENDS Little White Hands

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

ONLY ONCE in every calendar year does this column permit itself the pleasure of being sensible. The most critical reader, if any, can hardly allege that in the last 12 months I have committed an act of common sense in this space. After such a long period of rigorous fasting a man should be permitted, just once, to say something sane. With your permission I shall now enjoy that rare treat.

Hutchison This is written from Ottawa, in the middle of a good old-fashioned Ontario blizzard, from which I excavated two taxi cabs last night and buried myself neck-deep in the process. As everyone will agree, any dispatch which I send from Ottawa will not be read. It is therefore safe to write the truth after the fair warning that I am going to report on the subject of inflation. (At this point the last reader flees with a shrill scream of agony.)

STILL, THERE may be the odd housewife who wants to know whether prices are going up or down. It is a subject not without a certain academic interest when one is managing a household budget. I wish I could answer the housewife's question. I wish that anyone could answer it. Alas, there is no answer and even the usual guesses are getting a little frayed.

A year ago every economist in Ottawa and Washington knew exactly what was going to happen to prices. All of them were wrong. Today, the much-burned fingers of the experts are crossed, their voices stilled, their eyes glazed. If you are one who happily knows nothing of economics, as all decent people should, don't be humiliated by your ignorance. The economists cannot tell any more about prices than you can.

BUT ONE may report at least that the price prospects at the moment are not good. The Canadian cost of living index dropped fractionally in November and some people leaped to the conclusion that the great inflationary tide had started to recede. Since then, however, prices, as officially gauged, have showed a disagreeable tendency to rise slightly. The index probably has not reached its highest point yet.

HOWEVER, so paradoxical is the fascinating science of economics—the best thinkers in Ottawa believe that the real cost of living has fallen in the last few months quite significantly, despite the official index. That document contains only the "list" price of goods in the stores. It takes no account of the bargain sales which have swept from coast to coast since autumn. It takes no account either of the high turn-in allowances now being given on various gadgets like radios and refrigerators.

If all these things were considered it would be found that the cost of living—provided a housewife is thrifty and looks for bargains—has not advanced as far as the cost-of-living index.

Be that as it may, the question still is whether the real price of goods is going up again. At this point the economists fly to their charts, get out their slide rules, take a deep breath and fall to pieces.

THEY do agree, however, that as of now and now is a very short run indeed—there is a sign of any large price change upward or downward. For some months, they think, prices may see-saw and after that they could do anything.

Canadians worried about prices look to Ottawa for an answer and a cure. They are looking in the wrong place. Washington holds part of the answer to the riddle and the other half is well hidden behind the walls of the Kremlin. That is to say, the American economy will set the price level here and throughout the free world and the Politburo may well direct the course of the American economy by launching or refraining from military adventures.

STILL more mysterious even than the Politburo is the North American housewife. She, as you probably know already if you have lived with one, is the most baffling riddle of all time. And since she largely controls the national economy of America through her hold on the nation's purse, she is the largest economic factor of our times, though you might not think so to look at her.

Next time you do look at her show a decent respect for a prodigy and maybe take her out to dinner. People go all around the world to see the sphinx or the Taj Mahal when, without stirring out of their own kitchens, they would see the greatest wonder of the ages.

If you don't think so, if you have noted nothing powerful about her, at least the economists do. They are terrified of that little woman. If she should start spending more or saving more, if she should alter her buying habits even by a few decimal points then America can have more inflation and higher prices this year or just the opposite.

SHE—rather than government budgets or the charts of business—is the thing to keep your eye on.

You may understand her. The economists and the government, having misjudged her so often, have stopped trying. This creates terrible problems for the men in charge of the country and also for the men who imagine they are in charge of their own homes. It is refreshing to know, though, that one creature in this age of regimentation and conformity cannot be regimented or made to conform. She will shake the largest economic system in the world in her little white hands while the governments of men stand by and wring their hands.

Sea Control

Edmondson Journal

In time of war Britain's survival depends on her control of the sea lanes from her ports to the food and raw materials of the outer world: if these are cut by an enemy, the islands can be literally starved out. It is therefore vitally important to Britain that they should be strongly guarded, and that the forces for the job be under the admiralty's control. The average Englishman has horrible mental pictures of a foreign admiral neglecting the protection of Britain's food convoys, and diverting the home fleet to other tasks.

Trying To Do It The Easy Way

As Our Readers See It

DICTATORS?

We talk glibly of dictatorships and Russia with their way of government. What of the unions of this country? Are they dictating in their demand for the removal of D. K. Penfold and R. E. Potter, who at least, have the courage of their convictions? Also the carpenters' union and their threat of drastic action at Comox.

Why should anyone be forced to join a union? It is time the people told the unions just where they are pushing the economic structure of this country. Naturally the heads of the unions are agitating or they would not be justifying the large salaries they receive. Unions are excellent in their right place but not as dictators.

Sidney, B.C.

DAISY SWAYNE.

NOT EVIL

I happened to hear someone state, or quote, or misquote without understanding (of which who has much anyway) that the heart was an evil thing. How wrong. Is a bucket dirty because it holds dirty water. It may be dirtied because of dirty water but the bucket (of the example) is still all and perfect. So is the heart. Religion should lift people up, not cast them down.

Also a public man complained of adverse and false criticism. He was so factual. Some people cheerfully forget there are 12 major commandments for a way of life and not just one or two. And who doesn't take something or other seriously sometimes. If someone says there is a bargain in some store we seriously lend an ear. The job is to prove it for oneself.

J. E. JARVIS.

23 Menzies Street.

LONG, COOL VIEW

In reply to your editorial on the "mystique" of Douglas Social Crediters may I quote from a letter just received from a well-known editor in Australia?

We Social Crediters are long since accustomed to living in a world dominated by the larger lunacies. We accept them as the normal and inevitable outcome of a policy which ordains that the weathercock is of more account than the weather, figures greater than facts, and human hopes and aspirations of far less import than pen and ink entries in a ledger.

There was a time when such warped reasoning roused us to anger and indignation, but we have learned to conserve our energies and our mental balance in economic bedlam. And so it is that we are able in such a misshapen design for living to pause every day to delight in the wonder of a garden, marvel at the extraordinary gifts of men and women, indulge in the simple pleasures of life, and regard the man-made infamies with philosophy, if not with toleration.

And above all we take comfort in an abiding faith and a long, cool view, that evil inevitably succumbs to good, that reason ultimately prevails over folly, and that light transcends darkness.

MAJOR A. H. JUKES.

"Vines," Saanichton.

UNIONS AND RATES

I note from your Times of Jan. 25 re Comox Airport and the Carpenters' Union, that a union official stated they had asked Ottawa to clear the situation: "If they don't, we will." Wonder if this union official knows who he is talking to.

We also are being treated to the same kind of union impertinence regarding Mr. Penfold who, to my way of thinking, was perfectly correct in his statements. What is the use of complaining of increased utility rates of a non-profit organization if wages are allowed to go up? Someone has to pay.

It is time unions should be told they are not our government.

DISGUSTED.

FEDERATION

The sign "Federal Building," which has been placed over the main entrance to our new public building this month, seems to be timely as well as appropriate.

It is unfortunate that in 1867 the term Confederation was applied to the union of the three provinces. Actually Canada is the central government of the "Federated Provinces," which provinces still retain autonomous powers in many fields as specified in Section 92 of the B.N.A. Act.

The preamble to the act stated that the three provinces had expressed their desire to be "federally united" and the union provided that they should be one dominion under the name of Canada.

At that time Canada was a domain under the rule of Great Britain and the term dominion was correctly used. But with the passing of the Westminster Statute of 1931 this term has been without meaning.

The Dominion of Canada has become of age, long live the "Federation of Canada."

LYNN A. GALE.

P.O. Box 115, Victoria, B.C.

SOCIAL CREDIT

I read with interest Mr. W. L. Fahey's letter in your paper of recent date. His fourth item of Beliefs of Social Creditors "That which is physically possible and desirable must be made financially possible," holds particular interest.

Mr. Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada in 1938, before the Standing Committee on Banking and Commerce said: "The limit of possibilities depends on men and materials." He also pointed out, "now, if parliament wants to change the form of operating the banking system, then certainly that is within the power of parliament."

With our ability to produce, it would appear we could have a much higher standard of living. But, of course, parliament does not change the Bank Act, which leads one to the conclusion our member of parliament or legislature is not the servant of the people but the people are the servants of the member.

Until such times as we gain control of our members and demand results, I am afraid there will be no true Social Credit in Alberta or Canada.

WILLIAM J. CLARK.

Core Of The Asian Problem

By WALTER LIPPMANN

From Washington

WHEN he spoke last Thursday Governor Dewey was certainly not exaggerating how serious would be the consequences if southeast Asia were to fall within the Communist orbit.

It would be a catastrophe of enormous proportions. From this area comes two-thirds of the world's exportable rice, and were this rice under Communist control the position of India and of Japan would be greatly affected. Beside the rice, which is critical in Asia, this area exports rubber, tin and oil. If these raw materials were lost to the west European nations, their whole economic position, already precarious, would be radically weakened.

In order to prevent this catastrophe Governor Dewey proposes a Pacific treaty, similar to the North Atlantic Treaty for Europe and the Rio Pact in this hemisphere. "I am profoundly convinced," he said, "that if we form such an alliance and issue such a warning—that we will not hesitate to use every weapon at our command—there will be no invasion of southeast Asia."

DANGEROUSLY OPTIMISTIC

Governor Dewey is unduly, indeed dangerously, optimistic when he supposes that holding or losing southeast Asia depends upon preventing the Chinese from invading it. If that were the main problem, if to deter the Chinese army from invading Indo-China would solve the problem, then our whole position would be very much easier.

The danger in this region, as in the rest of southern Asia and northern Africa, is not primarily or principally external, as Governor Dewey assumed in his argument.

The new treaty, which Governor Dewey proposes, would not add any new guarantee to those which already exist. France, Great Britain and United States are already allied. They are already publicly committed to resist aggression in southeast Asia. They have agreed to, and are now holding, continuing staff talks as to what they can do in case of invasion.

Another treaty would be an elaborate way of getting France, Britain and America to endorse the cheque which they have already signed. Their endorsement of their own cheque will not put any more funds into the deposit against which the cheque is drawn.

The real problem in southeast Asia remains, and would be unaffected by signing another treaty.

TRANSITION PROBLEM

It is the problem of how to make the transition from colonies to independent states, which will maintain friendly and mutually profitable relations with the western great powers. The trouble with Governor Dewey's speech is, in my view, that it distracts attention from the real problem, which is very hard to solve, and is enormously emphatic about a remedy which is already being applied.

That the problem is very hard to solve is only too evident when we look at the Middle East and North Africa. In none of these countries is there any immediate threat of Communist invasion. For all of them the kind of guarantee which Governor Dewey wants is now in effect.

There is not the slightest doubt that the United States would react immediately if Iran were invaded. As for Egypt and Tunisia, they cannot of course be invaded at all unless a dozen other countries have already been invaded and conquered and a world war is in full blast.

Yet despite the fact that these countries are not threatened with military invasion, the western powers are gravely threatened in all of them.

Until we realize fully that in the vast area which runs from Morocco to Indonesia our problems are not primarily and principally military, we shall not even begin to solve our problems. We shall go on losing the cold war, having concentrated our energies and our resources—and our brains—almost exclusively on preparing for a hot war.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"LOTS of folks," said the Elevator Man, "are hired for what they know. City engineers, comptrollers, carpenters and such have to go through with a lot of technical knowledge and know-how. And you'd think the same thing would apply to other jobs, like leading an orchestra. Maybe it does, in most cases. But I've been reading of one band leader who figures he was hired because he laughs at his boss and our resources."

He works for the two comedians, Martin and Lewis. "I've found," he says, "that if people see somebody laughing, they'll laugh too, even though they don't get the joke. I've always wondered what the folks up in front with the stick was for. Going down!"

"As a matter of fact," said the Elevator Man, "that band leader has probably judged the crowd about right. One laugh can start an uproar, one handclap can set off a torrent of applause, one shriek can let loose a stampede. You'd often think a crowd was just poised, waiting for a signal to do something—and it doesn't care much what it does. It'll react as quickly as one man, and maybe quicker. But what it does won't necessarily be what the man would do. The crowd can develop a personality of its own and it will be meaner than the individual. Fear and greed and cruelty will rise to the top more quickly. Once in motion a mob tends to be run by the lowest elements in it, and the rest are swept along. No mob has ever accomplished anything very worthy, or done much thinking for itself. That's why they're the special love of dictators. The boss does the thinking and the mob does the real, lower main."

"On the other hand," said the Elevator Man, "some of man's highest achievements have been done in the mass—but a mass in which each member feels he's separate, and distinct. Community Chest drives are a good example. Each contributor feels he is part of a larger group, but his action is his own. The highest motives in the group win out and set the pace. So when the crowd laughs, figure out whether it's laughing as a mob or as a collection of individuals before you pride yourself on the quality of your jokes."

'Show piety at home,' 1 Tim. 5:4

Said Rabbi Zeitlin to Jewish mothers... But it could well apply to others... Make of your home a sanctuary... Each petty quarrel try to bury... Give them a God-inspired outlook And have them know The Holy Book... Teach well your children they are part of family which is the heart... Of nation and humanity... And serve God with humility.

ALL CITY FATHERS VOTE ROAD FUNDS

Skills Wants Guard Against Criticism; Fears Funds Available May Be Too Little

All the aldermen on City Council will have a say on what roads are to be rebuilt this year under funds still left in the 1948 Streets Loan By-Law.

The 1948 council was given no chance to pick out the roads," said Ald. Waldo Skillings at public works committee meeting Tuesday.

He said he was not levelling criticism but felt that to eliminate any charges of "favoritism," which had been made at Monday's hearing of the court of revision on local improvement assessments, the whole council be in on the planning, not just the committee.

"I've a feeling we're going to run short on by-law funds," he said. "The council as a whole should adjudicate on which roads will be done."

ADMITS SHORT FUNDS

Cyril Jones, city engineer, agreed funds would run short owing to increased costs, but stated the streets to be done were publicized well ahead of time, so that anyone with a complaint could have voiced it.

The committee instructed Jones to compile a complete list of work that should be done, with alternative estimates, depending on the type of job. He is to list streets in priority with notation of any special estimate problems. Ald. Skillings urged that tenders then be called from road construction firms, to test "whether we can do it cheaper ourselves." He reiterated his stand that the city should get out of the road building business, just as the provincial government had.

Drowned Man Held Uncashed Cheques

VANCOUVER, Jan. 30 (CP)—Six uncashed cheques totaling more than $2,000 were found Sunday by police in the room of a man whose body was found floating off Lapointe pier, Sunday.

The discovery was made only a few hours after the body was identified as that of Ivan Peters, son, 57.

His family was traced through a steamer ticket to Port Hardy, B.C., found in the pocket of his coat.

Police said Peterson apparently fell off the pier.

A man answering his description was seen "staggering along" by a workman shortly before the body was discovered in the water.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Hey fellas take a listen to this, especially you Cougars. The belief especially popular among athletes in hockey (and football) that a steak is the ideal pre-game food... well, fellas, it ain't so.

Nope! What you should be eating is a mixture of honey and orange juice. How much? Well enough until your appetite is satisfied. But, remember. This must be taken two hours before game time.

Then all your troubles will be carbohydrates, which is the ideal source of energy, or so results of tests published in the Sports College Research Guide prove.

Training and medical experts agree that the prime need of an athlete before a game is food and drink that:

Throws the least possible strain on the digestive system.

Is quickly assimilated and utilized.

Leaves an alkaline ash on oxidation.

Contains as much carbohydrates as possible.

You may not know it, but meat is 20 per cent protein and 70 per cent water. The rest is in fat in variable amounts depending on the type of meat. An athlete does need protein afforded by meat primarily as a tissue constructor but the same athlete should remember that the protein he gets in a steak four hours before a game (the accepted practice) is not utilized soon enough to be of value.

Actually the best time for the steak is after the game when the body needs replenishing.

The Guy Has Got To Dig A Little

Tests have proven that a switch in pre-game meals will not be noticeable to the athlete in added energy if the athlete is not giving his all for his alma mater. But it will be definitely noticeable with the athlete who pulls out all the stops and reaches down for that one last ounce of "drive," sometimes the difference in the case of a hockey player between a shot on goal and just another abortive rush.

Not having compared the price of honey and orange juice with steak, depending on course on the particular athlete's capacity for each, it nevertheless is true that the peak of energy stimulation comes about one hour after a meal.

From then it begins to fall and approximately four hours later it has disappeared. Steaks are usually eaten four hours before game time. If eaten later they would tend to give the athlete digestive difficulty. And as digestion is usually upset by the emotional reaction of all athletes before a game, this is to be avoided if at all possible.

A summary of tests conducted proves that athletes given a meat diet four hours before activity failed to measure up to those on a honey and orange juice mixture taken either four or two hours before activity.

The whole secret appears to lie in a food which leaves a high alkaline ash content and also one that prevents the sugar level from being depleted too quickly. Carbohydrates supply the answer.

How About It Doc; Would It Help?

It will be recalled that in the 1936 Olympics the Japanese entered three men in each swimming event at Berlin and qualified every man for the finals.

Japanese also hold a number of world records. Now if the proof of the carbohydrates is in the eating, it is interesting to note that the Japanese eat no meat before a race. They concentrate on oranges, honey and the mochi bean which leaves a high alkaline ash.

This isn't printed as a cure-all for the Cougars with whom every red-blooded and steak-eating fan is duly concerned at the moment, but it may help if trainer George Wilkinson could stock up on a supply of honey and orange juice for this week-end.

Oh, yes! And about that 20 per cent protein in meat (steak). An athlete would have to eat his steak the day before the game or two days before—it takes this long for proteins to be utilized.

But then perhaps we're stepping out of east. How about it Doc Wryde; would it help? Certainly it would be worth a try. Statistics say it will, just as they say the Cougars need a shot in the cellar.

THEY WANT TO 'SAVE BASEBALL'

The Average Fan Is Doing His Best

By DENNY BOYD

It's not the calendar that counts now; baseball fans all over the city have begun to watch the clock with the same intense anxiety they had viewed the days streaming by while the drive to "save baseball" seemed destined to founder.

But now there is possibility that the lack of time may be the stimulus that has been missing from the campaign.

For with only 48 hours plus remaining in which to reach the $35,000 objective, officials of the A's Booster Club and baseball fans have tripled their efforts to hit the Friday, Feb. 1, deadline with the necessary funds.

The Boosters, who for the first two weeks of the drive, operated only from one booth in the Douglas Hotel lobby, have set up similar booths in Eaton's, Hudson's Bay and Gordon's Sporting Goods. Donations can be made at any of these centres.

Public response at the main booth has shown a marked increase in the last two days, over $700 being received on Tuesday by Frank Ireland, Booster chairman at the central office.

Mayor Claude Harrison made a personal $25 contribution Tuesday.

The receipt books at fund drive headquarters tell the story though.

For instance, there's Louise Egan and her young nephew, Jimmy Nutter.

Jimmy lives in Chester, England, but last summer he came to Victoria for a vacation. He saw his first baseball game here and became a diamond addict. When the time came for Jimmy to return, he told his aunt he would come back as soon as he could to see a baseball game. For that reason, his aunt has sent in a pledge in his name, just so that he will have a chance of seeing that game.

There are The Times newsboys. A group of these junior salesmen saved up nickels and dimes to the extent of $23.02 and sent it in as a down payment on a full share.

Even more heartening were the two ragged little tykes, Tony and George, who came into the office, mouths full of popcorn and enquired if they were old enough to make contributions. When told they could, they handed over their worldly wealth—two dimes—and received a receipt for 20 cents.

Thirteen-year-old Ellen Stuart bought a full $25 share out of her savings. Lynne Simpson, eight, of 107 Burnside, contributed 50 cents.

Contributions have been received from Sooke, Leechtown, Courtenay, Vancouver, Sidney, Washington and Sidney.

On Robert Burns' night, Mrs. Robert Burns, of Port Townsend, Washington, heard Ed Farey's show on CKDA, exhorting the public to greater response. She sent in a $5 donation.

People's opinion of the drive are interesting, too.

Cecil Price, 614 Monterey, came in after work to make his donation. He was definite in his opinions.

"You have to get around to the people," he said. "If I was selling insurance I certainly wouldn't sell it from a booth. I'd get around to folks' houses. I would be glad to canvass my neighborhood if such a system could be organized."

Price described himself as just an average baseball fan stating that baseball is one of the few pleasures left for Victorians in the summer.

Mrs. M. Barnes, 905 Vancouver, said her reason for donating to the cause was that she and her husband had never missed a ball game since the inception of the Victoria Athletics.

She had harsh words for people who expected the A's to win every game. "My husband and I just like to see a good game," she said.

A man who believes in mixing business with pleasure is Al Ockwell, of Safeway stores. Al bought a full share because as he said, "I'm nuts about baseball and besides that, the ball players buy their groceries from me."

And there are others—all wanting to "save baseball."

WHIP STAMPEDERS

Canucks Near Fifth Place

By The Canadian Press

Saskatoon Quakers and Vancouver Canucks Tuesday night moved within three points of their immediate Pacific Coast Hockey League objectives.

A thrilling 2-1 victory over Edmonton Flyers put Quakers 1½ games from the league-leading New Westminster Royals.

Canucks edged to three-points' distance of the fifth-place Seattle Ironmen with a slam-bang 8-5 win over Calgary Stampede.

Ken Hunter's goal at 18:14 of the third period gave Quakers their prairie win. The goal was fed by Cy Rouse, late in the period. The combination had only one defenceman to beat and Hunter used Rouse as a decoy when he went in to pick the right-hand corner of the net.

Flyers took a 1-0 lead in the first on Johnny Raynak's goal and Quakers tied the count in the second on a marker by Alex Kaleta.

McCaig in battle

All the excitement wasn't strictly hockey. Playing-coach Doug McCaig of Flyers got into a fight with a spectator after reports said, the fan took a swing at him while he was near the boards in the second period.

Ron Plumb led Canucks with a hat-trick and Ray-Manson came through with two other Vancouver goals. Harry Groves and Hal Tarala got singles for Canucks.

Bing Juckes sparked Calgary with two goals while singles went to Don Anderson, Norm Larson and Bob Goodacre.

Calgary continues its coast tour tonight against Tacoma Rockets.

TRIP MACDONALD'S

Moose Force Deciding Game In Cage Playoffs

The third and deciding game for the women's city senior "B" basketball crown will be played tonight between Moose Lodge and MacDonald's Electric at Victoria High School gymnasium.

Moose forced the issue Tuesday evening when they took a 40-38 decision from Wally Yeaman's crew to tie the series at one apiece. MacDonald's won the initial contest 32-24 Monday.

Moose led 13-7 at the first quarter and 18-15 at the half. MacDonald's tied the score 30-30 at the three-quarter mark and took the lead four times in the final stanza before Moose squeezed through to victory.

In an exhibition contest, individuals of the senior "A" division took a 39-23 decision from Dickinson & Dunn of the intermediate "A" division.

Scoring follows:
Moose—P. Pettigrew 10, H. Pettigrew 16, Audrey Pearson 8, Agnes Pearson 1, C. May, E. Clark, T. Turner 3, M. Gies. Total 40.
MacDonald's—Lewin 5, McDonald 4, Pickering 3, Kennedy 2, Slater 12, Dods. Total 38.

Dr. Giovando said he has been assured by both clubs that they will play the game. The demand of Ed Benson, president of the Western International Hockey League, for the life suspension of Nanaimo owner Blair Cook and a year's suspension for Nanaimo coach Ed Shamlock was withdrawn.

Nanaimo claimed that Spokane had demanded a $600 guarantee for two games in Nanaimo. This had been paid through the W.I.H.L. and Pacific Coast Senior Amateur Hockey League agreement stipulated $300.

Nanaimo said when it asked for a similar arrangement for two games at Spokane, the Flyers had refused. Clippers then refused to play the scheduled game.

Dr. Giovando said he has been assured by both clubs that they will play the game. The demand of Ed Benson, president of the Western International Hockey League, for the life suspension of Nanaimo owner Blair Cook and a year's suspension for Nanaimo coach Ed Shamlock was withdrawn.

Nanaimo claimed that Spokane had demanded a $600 guarantee for two games in Nanaimo. This had been paid through the W.I.H.L. and Pacific Coast Senior Amateur Hockey League agreement stipulated $300.

Nanaimo said when it asked for a similar arrangement for two games at Spokane, the Flyers had refused. Clippers then refused to play the scheduled game.

Brent Wants A Baseball Team

Brent Chan is only four years old but those four years have been spent living at 2100 Cook St., right across the street from Athletic Park. Furthermore his cousin is Jimmy Chan, one of the best pitchers in the local senior "A" softball league. Brent has been exposed to baseball for all of his four years and he thinks life would be pretty dull if he couldn't peek through a knot-hole during the summer and see the A's playing. With this in mind, Brent had a talk with Wilf Schroeder, at the Hudson's Bay Booster Booth and made his contribution to the drive to "save baseball."

WHILE MAKING SALES in the drug department at Hudson's Bay Co. Tuesday, Dorcas Jones (seated) and Ivy Bulmer wondered what was going on at the table by one of the main doors. When curiosity got the best of them, they walked over to the table, discovered it to be a booster booth and sat right down to add their names to the list of fans who are digging deep to keep baseball alive.

MAJOR FISHING AWARDS

McConnell 'Big Man'

By ROY THORSEN

Four anglers walked off with major trophies in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association operations last year in Saanich Inlet.

Acting president Dave Gray presented awards at the annual meeting Monday night.

Veteran fisherman C. W. McConnell was the "big man" of the year. His 35½-pound salmon won him two cups and a diamond in the eye of the silver button that went with the catch. This was the biggest salmon caught by a member.

Sophie Heglin was back on the winners' list again. Her 30-pounder was tops in the women's ranks and good for a trophy.

Tom Alexander weighed in the most number of button fish during the year to take high aggregate honors. Total weight went 76.12 pounds. He also caught the biggest fish on a Wednesday, 33.12 pounds, to win a cup.

Young Keith Gailbraith was the top ranking member of the little people of the club—juniors. He reeled in a 34-pounder to take the junior trophy.

TOTAL NEARS $4,000

Baseball Drive At High Point

"Best day yet" was the way booster club officials described Tuesday's response to the "save baseball" fund.

Close to $1,000 was collected from the little man with the businessmen to be approached today by canvassers carrying a special names list.

The total public subscription is now $4,000 with the big push to be made today, Thursday and Friday.

Victoria Baseball and Athletic Company directors must know by that time just what indications are, as on Saturday they must answer to the Western International League board of directors in Seattle.

A decision will then be made as to whether public baseball will remain here or not.

$20,000 NEEDED

Though the objective has been set at $35,000—it is believed that at least $15,000 will satisfy the W.I.L. directors that baseball is in Victoria to stay, while a $20,000 response would leave the club "over the hump" temporarily.

Club shareholders will meet Thursday to set the date of the annual meeting at which time directors will be elected. The new directors will name the team.

Tobin On Prowl For Ice Talent

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Bill Tobin, owner of Chicago Black Hawks, planned to fly to Canada today to search for players in the junior amateur ranks who might be able to bolster his sagging club.

Tobin said he would look over a number of players, including Ken Wharram and Ted Slevator of Galt, Ont., and Murray Costello of the St. Michael's juniors in Toronto. All three are forwards.

All-Powerful Totems Defeat Mount Douglas

Vic High Totems, this city's probable entry in the forthcoming B.C. Inter-High School basketball tournament, trounced Mount Douglas High School, 40-19, Tuesday afternoon, for their second straight victory.

John Shields led the city squad with 10 points, followed by Lowell Hodges with eight.

The Totems had little trouble winning as they took a 9-2 lead in the first quarter and extended their margin to 21-7 at the half.

Skills was high man for Mount Douglas with six points.

Victoria High—Shields 10, Hodges 8, Oakley 7, Johnson 5, Zarr 4, Kirschner 3, Dunning 2, Abbott 2.

Mount Douglas—Rosen 10, Balling 6, Johnson 5, Thomas 4, Lam 3, Glass 4, Lidstone 19.

Culley Makes It Tough, But Clippers Win

Because he scored at a crucial moment in the game, Nanaimo's Don Culley gave his teammates a big scare and some extra work last night.

The reason: Wrong goal.

Clippers defeated Vancouver Wheelers 8-7 in overtime after Culley forced the extra session in the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League game by slapping the puck into the Nanaimo net.

This happened in the third period when he was trying to clear away a dangerous Wheeler attacking play, and tied the score at 6-6.

Mei Gourdeau and Angelo Defelice wrapped up the game for Nanaimo in overtime with Mickey Lynch providing a goal for the leg-weary Wheelers, who stripped only 10 players.

Vernon Canadians, second-place team in the Okanagan Senior League, increased their margin over Kelowna Packers to four points.

Canadians plastered the cellar Penticton V's 8-4 with Ching Deere scoring a hat trick for Vernon in the third period, while the league-leading Kamloops Elks clipped Packers 6-3.

Kimberley Dynamiters swamped the league-leading Spokane Flyers 7-2 in a Western International Hockey League game. Flyers play Nelson Maple Leafs tonight.

College Athletes Plan For Annual UBC Invasion

Vancouver, here we come! Thunderbirds, look out!

So commented the exuberant members of the four lucky local rep teams chosen to journey to Vancouver to compete with U.B.C. in the annual homecoming celebrations March 1-8.

Fifty thousand grads and families are expected to flock to U.B.C. during the week-long celebrations.

The 45 Victoria College students of rugby, basketball, soccer, and badminton squads will fly over for the two-day meet against their mainland counterparts. Also invited to attend by the U.B.C. Student's Council is the entire college student body.

The ski trip to Deer Park, Port Angeles, is now a reality, 50 students having signed up for the two-day excursion.

Second week of the badminton tournament has now been completed with the seeded players advancing in all rounds.

Frances Appleton and George Forbes moved to the finals of the mixed doubles with a tough 9-15, 15-5, 17-15, three-set victory over semifinalists Bernice Jennings and Ron Birch.

In the boys' singles Jim Pritchard advanced to the semis with a straight-set victory over Ted Horsey. In the girls singles Wave Matcham earned the right to meet Bernice Jennings in the semifinals by downing Frances Appleton in two hard-fought, extra-point games.

The Inter-Scholastic League basketball quintet will play its first contest Friday against Royal Roads on the latter's home floor.

Wes Maulstead, Bill Garner, Gerry Bowden, Ted Saunders, George Woollett and Bob Monaghan will form the backbone of the defending championship squad.

The college bowling team sent its scores into the Inter-Varsity Telegraphic Bowling Tournament.

LEWISTON ENTRY NAMED 'BRONCS'

LEWISTON, Idaho, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Broncs. That will be the nickname of Lewiston's entry in the Western International Baseball League this year.

The announcement was made today by Marvin Webb of the Lewiston baseball club's board of directors. He was chairman of a committee which selected the name from nearly 200 suggested by tri-state fans.

February 13 has been designated as the night for Mr. Fan to howl. On that night he will be feted in proper "Fan Appreciation Night" manner.

Executives, coaches and managers of the C.I.L. met Tuesday night, put their heads together and emerged with a host of ideas to show their fans just how much they appreciate their patronage.

A list of prizes as long as one's arm will be given away. It is hoped to have army and navy bands attending.

The three games that night see Army and Navy tangling, Victoria Merchants meeting Individual Cleaners in the feature game and Seven-UPS facing Civil Service in the wind-up.

Hershey Adds To A.H.L. Lead

Hershey Bears moved further ahead the pack in the American Hockey League's eastern division Tuesday night downing St. Louis Flyers 2-1.

Hershey now has 55 points and second-place Providence 47.

In the only other game, Cincinnati Mowhaws blanked Buffalo Bisons 4-0 to take over third place in the league's western section.

No games are scheduled tonight but New York plays in Montreal Thursday, while Boston goes to Chicago.

United Schedules Exhibition Match

Victoria United has scheduled an exhibition game against Cumberland at Windsor Park Sunday. Main reason for the exhibition tilt is to keep in shape for the next league game, two weeks away.

Victoria and District Football Association all-star team will meet United a week Saturday at Royal Athletic Park. Proceeds from the match will go to the district organization's fund for injured players.

Puck Appreciation Night Feb. 13

The Commercial Hockey League is making plans to honor the man that they love best—Joe Fan.

February 13 has been designated as the night for Mr. Fan to howl. On that night he will be feted in proper "Fan Appreciation Night" manner.

Howe Adds To Margin

Gordie Howe of Detroit picked up an assist Tuesday night, although the league-leading Red Wings suffered a 3-1 setback at the hands of Boston Bruins, to move two points ahead in the National Hockey League's individual scoring department.

Leaders follow:

G	A	Pts.
Howe, Detroit	25	47
Lach, Montreal	17	37
Richard, Montreal	24	39
Rahgoth, New York	14	28

CARTER GIVES VIDUALS NEEDED PARTING GIFT

All is not lost for the Victoria Individuals.

Unable to continue sponsoring the club because of sagging gates, Jerry Carter of Individual Cleaners was forced to pull out leaving the team in a hole. However, before departing Carter made the club a gift of $100 to tide them through the forthcoming B.C. playoffs, starting against Alberni Feb. 15.

No opponent has yet been named for the Individuals this Saturday night but they may play a local all-star team.

Hope Answers Golf Critics

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 30 (AP)—Bob Hope, a little annoyed about British comments on his golf game in the British amateur last year, said Tuesday he will enter the event again this summer and tossed a challenge in the bargain. Hope said he and Bing Crosby will take on any two British entertainers at golf for any side bet they want.

"And they can have Lloyd's of London on their side," he said.

He, and to a lesser extent, Crosby were targets last week of criticism from some British columnists for their clowning on the golf course.

U.S. ADMIRAL NAMED TO COMMAND POST

McCormick, Chief Of Atlantic Fleet, Takes Over As Supreme Allied Boss For N.A.T.O.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Admiral Lynde B. McCormick, commander of the United States Atlantic Fleet, today was named supreme Allied naval commander of the North Atlantic.

As the first boss of a peacetime international fleet, the 56-year-old naval veteran will direct the sea activities of all countries in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The appointment was announced simultaneously in Washington and London.

McCormick's operations will extend up to but will not include the coastal areas of the British Isles. As his first move after receiving the appointment, McCormick announced the selection of Vice-Admiral Sir William Andrewes, of Britain, now commander-in-chief of the British-American-West Indian station, as his deputy.

McCormick served with the British fleet in the First World War and took part in some of the conferences with Britain during the Second World War.

The way was cleared for the appointment of an American as supreme Allied naval commander during Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Washington earlier this month.

Up to that time, Churchill vigorously opposed naming an American to the post.

President Truman made public a letter he sent to McCormick informing him of the appointment and at the same time assigning him operational command of United States armed forces assigned to the United States Atlantic command.

Dr. Cyr Case Ends For Navy's Files

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 (CP)—The navy officially wrote final Tuesday to the celebrated case of the American, named Ferdinand Waldo Demara, who posed as "Surgeon Lieutenant J. C. Cyr," and got away with it for months.

The official Canada Gazette, in publishing a list of officers released recently, listed "Surgeon Lieutenant J. C. Cyr" among them. His discharge was actually effected some time ago.

Demara is the man who got hold of a New Brunswick doctor's license, from the Canadian Medical Association, adopted the doctor's name, enlisted and went out to Korea to do notable medical deeds.

B.C. Vehicle Total Swells By 24,000

There were 282,788 motor vehicles bearing British Columbia license plates at the end of 1951 and 327,456 persons with licenses entitling them to drive them.

These were the figures provided today by the Provincial Motor Vehicle Branch in its year-end report.

The totals represent a substantial increase in the number of licensed vehicles and licensed drivers at the end of the previous year. The 1950 report showed 258,617 vehicles on the road and 322,837 persons qualified as drivers.

Ratio of passenger cars to trucks and other commercial vehicles is three to one, according to the branch figures. The 1951 car count showed 210,597 licensed cars and 72,191 licensed commercial vehicles.

The report showed a diminishing number of motorcycles on the road. Whereas there had been 4,570 motorcycles registered in 1950, there were only 4,106 licensed for 1951, a drop of almost 10 per cent.

Austerity Plan Boosting Bevan

Left-Winger Nearer Leadership Of British Labor Party; Recruits Many New Followers

LONDON, Jan. 30 (Reuters).—The Conservative Government's sweeping economy cuts announced Tuesday will push Aneurin Bevan nearer the leadership of the opposition Labor Party, Labor politicians predicted today.

New followers, fearing collapse of the welfare state, are likely to rally around him in the two-day House of Commons debate on the cuts.

Even trade union members of Parliament, hostile to the left-wing Bevan group, were convinced today that the Welsh rebel will gain influence.

They said the trend became obvious at a meeting of Labor legislators Tuesday night, when Bevan insisted they must oppose the government's proposals to make charges in the national health service—hitherto virtually free. The service is his creation, started when he was minister of health.

Moderate party leaders, including former Prime Minister Clement Attlee, and Hugh Gaitskell, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, called for caution. They admitted that if they were still in power they would have been forced to make economies just as harsh.

Result of the meeting is that the Labor opposition will attempt to ensure the government for breaking election pledges and for attacking the social services.

3-Day Tour Of Island To Start April 25

A Chamber of Commerce goodwill caravan will make an island tour for three days starting April 25.

Mayor Claude Harrison has promised to take part in the plan, sponsored by the Tourist Trade group of the local chamber.

The return journey to Victoria will be made the next day. "We hope the navy band will play at all our stops," said Geoffrey Edgell, chairman of the Tourist Trade group.

Arrangements are being made with chambers of commerce at Alberni, Port Alberni and Campbell River to arrange banquets and dances at each of the overnight stops.

The R.C.M.P. will provide an escort for the tour.

Many inquiries have been received from people wanting to take part in the caravan and it is possible that buses may be chartered in case enough private cars are not available.

Only Two Parcels Needed To Widen Fort St. Narrows

Widening and developing of the Dardanelles—long discussed in civic circles—will be included in the public works provisional estimate this year, at a cost of approximately $30,000.

The committee Tuesday approved a plan of Cyril Jones, city engineer, for widening the south side of Fort from Pemberton Road to Oak Bay Junction. He was instructed to negotiate with owners of two pieces of property, required for the project. Considerable property has already been acquired.

PROUD CIVIC RECORDS

OSLO (CP).—Not a single murder was committed in Oslo in 1951, but reported crimes were nine per cent higher than in 1950. Arrests for drunkenness declined by more than 2,000 and there were more thefts, but sex crimes, assaults and embezzlements were fewer.

Startling scenes and episodes that forever settle the question—Do the dead REALLY come back? Report of amazing prayers to the Devil!

Blue Water Calls 72-Year-Old, Building Third Craft

By BILL HOLLAND

"Last Hope" is probably veteran boatbuilder Ernest Palmer's last try. He is a retired storekeeper with a love for blue water.

Judge's Wife Hurt As Car Hits Pole

Mrs. Myrtle Macfarlane, 1906 St. Ann, wife of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane, was reported in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital today following a Tuesday afternoon traffic accident.

According to Saanich police, Mrs. Macfarlane lost control of her car on Cook, near Linwood, and collided with a power pole. She suffered injuries to her legs. About $200 damage was done to the car.

man's hobby. But heretofore he has had bad luck with his two previous power-driven craft.

So, third time lucky, Boatbuilder Palmer hopes, he's going to try again.

Discouraged? Not a bit of it. "Last Hope" is a sleek cabin cruiser, 22 feet long with a beam of 93 1/2 inches, and is equipped with the latest in plumbing fixtures. Palmer emphasized the fact that not one single nail was used in the craft's construction, but all galvanized screws with bronze fittings.

Inside and outside steering controls are features. It has sleeping accommodation for one person, which, says Palmer, "is all I'm going to need."

SPEED OF 20 KNOTS

Speed of the $5,000 craft is estimated by Palmer at 18 to 20 knots, "just fast enough to get in out of a storm." It has a fuel capacity of 25 gallons and a small gas cook stove.

Palmer is not sure what he is going to do, or where he is going to go in "Last Hope," but concludes that as soon as the completed craft hits the water, it will be his home.

Stay-On-Farm Plan Submitted

Alberta Dairy Commissioner Suggests Pact Between Fathers-Sons To Assure Operations

NANAIMO, Jan. 30 (CP)—Many young men are leaving the farm, but D. H. McCallum, dairy commissioner for Alberta Tuesday offered a solution for the problem.

He would have father-son agreements on established home-steads and farms to assure their continued operation. The sons would have a greater share in operations.

Many young men are leaving the farms because of lack of cattle, he told the opening session of the British Columbia Dairyman's Association convention.

"I think the dairy industry faces a critical time," said McCallum. "We should get together and work towards a better public relationship."

He said the consumer should be educated to the problems of the industry.

"We must tell him of the costs and manufacture and distribution problems. If we tell the story well we can expect better prices."

Alberta was conscious of the British Columbia market for its dairy products.

B.C. and Alberta each benefited by the two-way trade of dairy products, fruit and lumber.

Earlier, president J. Mullen of Armstrong, B.C., recommended that a consumers' representative be given a place in the association.

McCallum urged a cheaper method of milk delivery, improved methods of packaging of merchandise and cheese, continuous butter making process and improved packaging and handling of print butter.

Alberta's market, he said, had been developed through dairy factories. Alberta's first cheese factory was established in 1888 and its first creamery in 1890.

Mayor Earle C. Westwood of Nanaimo welcomed the dairy men. Being a farmer's son he had some idea of their problems.

"Your problems are the problems of every citizen of B.C.," he said.

Mullen told the gathering it was obvious the dairy industry needed a voice of its own. That had been the reason for reviving the association. It was the guiding assembly of the industry.

The association should work for the most good for the entire industry. It should be the means of creating an understanding and harmony. There would be differences of opinion between producers and processors and marketing. It would be good if these could emerge and demand confidence.

B.C. had many men of ability and good judgment in all branches of the industry and he believed these men should serve on the directorship. He urged moderation in the convention proceedings.

Mullen wondered if the problems could be solved by adding a consumers' group to the organization.

"If we could gain their confidence we in the dairy industry would not have so many different opinions," he said.

He urged a program to educate the public. They were purchasing service as well as milk. The consumer was not always aware of this.

"Public opinion or poor public relationship has more to do with our problems today than anything else."

Gallantry Awards May Aid Promotion

It is now possible for a promotion to a higher rank in the army to come with an award for meritorious service for gallantry.

It has been announced in recent Canadian Army orders that in exceptional cases, where a further recognition is deserved, along with awards for meritorious service or gallantry, a promotion in rank may be submitted for approval by the defense minister.

Men recommended for this promotion must be capable of carrying out the duties of the higher rank. But other qualifications normally required for the promotion may be waived.

MOSCOW, Jan. 30 (CP)—Komsomol Pravda, organ of the Young Communist League, said Canadian students are exposing the policy of their reactionary leaders and their American inspirers who are attempting to obstruct the development of friendly relations between the youth of Canada and that of Russia.

"In many Canadian universities," the paper said, "discussions are going on which clearly show a tremendous desire among Canadian students to establish co-operation with the youth of the Soviet Union.

"For instance, at a student meeting attended by 500, 479 voted to invite a delegation of Soviet students to Canada."

STILL A BABY

Career Closed For Soldier At Age Of 15

EDMONTON, Jan. 29 (CP)—The army wrote him today to the story of the "baby bonus" gunner.

It started Oct. 21 when "Gunner T. J. Wilson," a husky 170-pound soldier absent without leave from Camp Shilo, Man., surrendered to army authorities in Edmonton.

Less than 24 hours later, the gunner escaped custody at the Prince of Wales Armouries here. About the same time his parents appeared with the information their son was only 15 years old.

In fact, they said, they were still receiving the boy's "baby bonus" from the Federal government. Wilson was not his name—he had used a Wilson birth certificate to enlist.

Ten days ago information was received that the gunner was working as a cook's helper at Kenamo Bay, 80 miles southeast of Prince Rupert. A Vancouver military policeman went to Prince Rupert and with an R.C.M.P. constable flew to Kenamo and brought the absentee to Edmonton.

The army wound up the affair by discharging the 15-year-old and handing him back to his parents.

HOWE PAINTS ROSY FUTURE FOR CANADA

Industrial Might Expanding As Never Before
Trade Minister Tells Vancouver Audience

VANCOUVER, Jan. 30 (CP)—Trade Minister C. D. Howe Tuesday predicted a glowing future for Canada's industrial might, even after the western world's rearmament drive is over the hump.

The Canadian productive machine, he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Vancouver Board of Trade's 65th annual meeting, "is expanding and being improved as never before in history."

"And I venture to suggest that never before has investment been directed along lines which hold promise of greater returns in terms of the things Canada and the world needs for a better life and for greater security."

By any test, said Mr. Howe, "Canada is doing well at the beginning of 1952. And yet I believe there are greater things in store for this country."

The economy was straining to produce all the demand of investment, defense and civilian needs. There were various restrictions imposed to keep competing demands from interfering with one another.

But eventually, predicted Mr. Howe, "and I hope in the not-too-distant future, we, and our allies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, will have surmounted the hump of preparedness."

As for what may happen after the demand generated by rearmament disappears, Mr. Howe said: "You will not expect me at this time to analyze prospects for Canadian export trade. My only comment is this: The way in which Canada has been able to respond to the needs of her friends and allies for great quantities of strategic materials is a pretty good indication that this country is an efficient producer."

Although Currently Behind Schedule R.C.A.F. Has Eye On Goal—Claxton

OTTAWA, Jan. 30 (CP)—

Defense Minister Claxton said Tuesday night an important part of Canada's aircraft program is behind schedule but the R.C.A.F. still aims to form a new fighter squadron every two months from now on.

Giving an insight into the staggering cost of this drive to build up a fighter force, he disclosed that it will cost $1,500,000,000 to build the 3,000 new planes the R.C.A.F. is going to get under the three-year defense program launched in 1951.

That is an average of $500,000 a plane.

In a CBC free-time political broadcast, he made these points.

1. Production of the all-weather fighter, the CF100 Canuck and the Orenda jet engine is behind schedule but "is coming along." (The Canuck is slated to team up with the F86 Sabre as the frontline duo in Canada's fighter defense.)

2. From now on "we will be aiming to produce a new squadron equipped with jet fighters and manned with trained air and ground crew every two months. . . . That is quite an undertaking and sometimes we may not always meet the target but we shall do our best."

NEVER BEFORE DREAMED

3. In an apparent reference to developments in atomic and other fields, he said Canada is building armed forces "to fight battles with weapons and under conceptions man has never before dreamt of."

4. Since the Korean war began 18 months ago, the strength of the forces has grown 90 per cent—to 90,000 from 47,000.

5. Canada's navy has placed $200,000,000 worth of orders to build new ships and rearm existing ones and the first of 14 unique anti-submarine escort vessels has been launched.

It is not planned at present, he said, to add much in the way of new formations to the army but there will be a steady build-up requiring a considerable number of men for this as well as for replacement and rotation."

The navy's $200,000,000 ship-building and rearmament program is making progress.

But the air force represented the biggest and toughest part of the whole defense program. The aircraft production program alone would eat up one-third of the total equipment program for all three forces.

Great Demara Impersonation Revealed By Ex-Times Man Retold In 'Life'

Life Magazine this week tells the story of Ferdinand Demara Jr., the Canadian navy's "mystery surgeon," and describes how a news story by a former Victoria Times reporter helped trip up the American impostor.

Demara, posing as Dr. Joseph Cyr of New Brunswick, joined the destroyer Cayuga for service in Korean waters last year.

He was commissioned a surgeon-leutenant and, shortly after arriving in the war zone, Demara operated on a South Korean soldier to remove a bullet lodged close to the man's heart.

The operation was a complete success and, as Life quotes

Demara: "I couldn't have been nervous, even if I felt like it. Practically everybody on the bloody ship was standing there, watching me."

No doctor in actuality, Demara continued his fabulous career as a naval surgeon on the Cayuga and one day was approached by Lieut. R. A. V. "Al" Jenkins, former Victoria Times reporter and now information officer with the navy, who wanted to send out a story on the operation.

Demara realized that the story might put an end to his naval career.

"I couldn't talk Jenkins out of it, but I knew that a story in the papers would finish me," he said.

"When Jenkins asked me about my operations, I tried to make them sound dull, hoping that the correspondents would ignore what he wrote. And I told him my home town was Halifax. I figured that might keep me from being linked up with the other Doctor Cyr in Grand Falls."

Jenkins's story, subsequently released to Canadian papers, drew an inquiry from the R.C.N. and Demara was found out to be an impostor and discharged here at Esquimalt some weeks ago.

Of his future, Demara says: "I guess you can say I don't know exactly what I'm going to do next."

"But I have a few things in mind."

Police Warning 5-Day Banking Invites Crime

Saturday Closing Creates New Problems For Protection Of Victoria's Merchants

The five-day bank week starting Feb. 16 is an "invitation to crime" in the opinion of city Police Chief John Blackstock. A new policing problem comes with the Saturday closing of banks he told the Victoria Times today.

Even though night deposit chutes may be installed by the banks, it is felt the lack of regular banking facilities on Saturdays will result in the holding by merchants of larger amounts of cash on their own premises or persons than they do over the week-ends now.

"And if that doesn't mean trouble, I don't know," the chief said.

Blackstock said his force will endeavor to combat the expected "difficulties" with the manpower available.

NO FORCE INCREASE

It was taken from this that no extra men will be sought. The chief asked for the addition of eight policemen to his department last year and was given three.

There have been indications that banks may remain open on Fridays from 4 to 6 to take deposits from merchants.

Here again Chief Blackstock

WALLACES BACK HOME

Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace have returned to Government House after a 20-day visit to Hawaii.

Premier Byron Johnson lunched with the Governor Tuesday to bring him up to date on provincial government happenings during his absence.

He suggested that merchants should help police against burglars and safe-crackers by keeping their stores and offices well lighted during hours of darkness.

Vancouver Nudists' Club To Hold Conducted Tours

Neither Color, Creed Nor Nationality Bar To Initiation In Van-Tan Club

A Vancouver nudist club has been incorporated as a society and intends to operate a summer camp in Lynn Valley, North Shore, which will be open to selected visitors, who will be charged $1 for conducted tours.

The group has been registered as the Van-Tan Club. It is the first such organization in British Columbia.

The society says its object is to provide "a private and secluded location for recreation and the practise of sun bathing."

Color, creed or nationality will present no bar to prospective members. But those hoping to join will have to meet rigid requirements when it comes to character and behavior.

FEES KEPT LOW

The Van-Tan Club will charge an initiation fee of $3. Annual dues will be $12 for married couples living within a radius of 35 miles and $6 for families living outside the area.

Single men living within the 35-mile radius will be charged $12 annually and those outside $6. Single women and members' children, between 18 and 21, will be charged $6 per year regardless of where they live.

Prospective members will be interviewed by three bona fide members of the club and then may be accepted on a probationary basis.

The published rules say a visitor may tour the camp for $1 as long as he is accompanied by a member "who will be responsible for his conduct."

The camp hostess will welcome

Mayor Backs Move To Quit B.C.M. Union

Aldermanic proposals that Victoria break away from the U.B.C.M. and begin steps to get a private charter won support today from Mayor Claude Harrison.

At Tuesday's public works committee meeting Ald. Frank Mulliner said it was time Victoria got out of the U.B.C.M., saying: "The tail has been wagging the dog long enough."

Ald. Waldo Skilling stated it was "high time" the city got a private charter.

"Until we do our hands are tied," he said.

The mayor said a private charter similar to Vancouver's charter would give a "lot of additional powers."

In so far as leaving the U.B.C.M., he felt that Victoria was in a different situation to other municipalities in the province.

Petty Thieves Ruin Exhibits

Museum Director Claims Stolen Objects Of Use To Collectors Only, Not To Public

Petty thieving by souvenir hunters and collectors is one of the problems the Provincial Museum staff is confronted with, Dr. Clifford Carl, director, disclosed today.

Dr. Carl said every year the museum suffers losses from thefts and defacement of exhibits from people with no respect for public property.

Among exhibits which have been stolen are an Indian bone carving and belt, he said.

"The carving has some value from a collector's point of view, but not to the man in the street," Dr. Carl said. "It has only museum value."

He said one man went to the trouble to take apart a large show case in order to steal a stuffed six-inch gold fish.

Birds' eggs have been taken from the cases, he added.

"I don't know why people want certain things or what they can possibly do with them," the director said.

For instance, someone took a moose's ear. The tail of a stuffed wolf also disappeared. Another day the paw of the polar bear was reported missing.

"These things have no value at all and their loss ruins the exhibits," Dr. Carl said.

City Hall Worker Dies Suddenly

Her colleagues at City Hall were saddened today to learn of the sudden death early this morning of Mrs. Marjorie Koski, 39.

Mrs. Koski, a native of Ashstead, Surrey, joined the civic service staff in 1949 and was an accounting clerk in the city assessor's office.

She was at work Tuesday.

Mrs. Koski was secretary of the City Hall Employees' Association and took a prominent part in arrangements for any civic staff social function.

A widow, she lived with her two daughters and her mother, Mrs. C. K. Bell at 1023 Linden. The daughters, Gerry and Beverly, are well-known in city sport circles. They are attending high school here.

Shriners' Big Ball At Empress Feb. 15

Shriners here will hold their fifth annual Band Ball at the Empress February 15.

Sponsored by the Gizah Temple, Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine, the affair is expected to draw visitors from the mainland, up-island and Port Angeles.

The Gizah Temple was founded here 50 years ago and has absolute jurisdiction in British Columbia and the Yukon. Its membership is about 2,000.

The name Gizah is taken from one of the most ancient and remarkable of all the pyramids in Egypt.

OLD WHEN CHAMPLAIN SAILED WEST

Last Of Saanich Forest Giants Felled

The last of a race of Saanich giants, born nearly six centuries ago, has fallen under the strokes of axemen and the bite of power saws.

Today trucks are carrying away the logs, some of them weighing as much as eight tons, cut from the 250-foot trunk, nearly nine feet in diameter at the butt.

This towering fir had been known for 50 years as the King Tree, or Old Jonathan, to residents along West Saanich and Old West Roads, at the Keating end. It dominated the countryside for miles around. It was the last survivor of a forest which once clothed much of the Saanich peninsula. It stood alone in dignity and lofty pride, among the second growth and the rotting stumps of its contemporaries.

SURVIVOR OF FIRE

Why this monster, alone of all its giant tribe, was left standing when the virgin forest was cut half a century ago, no one knows. How it survived the fire which swept the area a quarter-century back is odd. Perhaps it was the proximity of the Indians' spring, close to the Old West Road, which may have checked the fury of the fire at the King Tree's base.

In any event, it stood inviolate until the fallers came. Its branches, thick as big man's body even 150 feet above the highway, were considered a menace to life and powerlines. G. E. Smith, on whose land it reigned, considered it wise to cut the King Tree down. And nearby residents agreed with him, even with an axe in the throat. The King Tree was a sort of symbol to the old-timers. Its end was the end of an era.

The tree was more than a sapling when Edward the Black Prince fought in France. It was

Two films of interest to community drama groups will be shown Thursday to the Victoria Theatre Guild, following its regular meeting at Langham Court, Rockland Avenue. First is a feature, "Wig Making," and second, a short play, "The Stronger." Film time is 9 o'clock.

PENSIONERS UNDAUNTED BY DEFEAT

Carry On Despite City Grant Refusal

Canadian Pensioners of Great Wars Inc. will carry on their work for veterans despite their refusal of a $200 yearly grant Monday by the Greater Victoria Welfare Council.

"We're doing a good job," said group spokesman Sam Saunders today, "we'll keep it going and from now on we won't ask a cent from anyone."

Welfare council executive director R. L. Bialuski said he had investigated the work of the organization and found it was duplicated by such groups as the Canadian Legion and the D.V.A. and that its services were "negligible."

The council will advise the C.P.G.W. Inc. of its decision and will urge them to disband and join up with a large group.

"We'll take this in our stride," said Saunders of the 31-year-old organization.

"But we don't appreciate their free advice about disbanding. Things that are free aren't worth much."

David H. Thomas was given the "benefit of the doubt" by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today and a charge of stealing groceries from a fellow cabin occupant at 742 Johnson was dismissed.

Local Accountant, Leonard W. Cox Dies In Hospital

Leonard W. Cox, well-known member of Paint Supply Co. Ltd., accounting department, died early today at Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was 52.

Born in Sussex, England, he came to Victoria 35 years ago, and was a member of the National Office Management Association. He also belonged to the Royal Order of Moose.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Lorne, and daughter, Bertha, at home, 1910 Brighton; his mother, Mrs. James Cox, Victoria, and a brother, Albert, in Calgary.

Funeral will be held Saturday at 3:15 at Hayward's.

UNDERTAKING MADE

The company made an undertaking with the union, in advance of the conciliation board hearing, to "accept the ruling of any impartial third party."

The union would not make such an undertaking and refused to accept the ruling of the board, headed by Col. R. B. Longridge.

The majority report of the conciliation board pointed out that sufficient reason was not shown why the pay rates in Victoria should be identical with Vancouver. In more than a dozen other trades rates vary from 10 to 30 cents an hour in favor of Vancouver workmen.

Although only 13 men are employed in the stereo department, a strike would affect 350 employees of Victoria Press Ltd., publishers of the Colonist and Times.

WANT VANCOUVER RATE

The 13 stereo employees base their demand for a 37-cent-an-hour increase on the rate recently accepted in Vancouver. Members of the same union as Vancouver stereo workers, they contend they are entitled to the same hourly rate, $2.25.

The conciliation award would bring their wage rate to $2.20 an hour, with nine paid statutory holidays. Apart from the Vancouver area, this is the highest basic pay rate in Canada.

KNEE-HI MEETS COLLEAGUES

Safety Pup And Kiwanis All Pals At Club Lunch

By DON BAIRD

Dr. Ballard's Knee-Hi made friends with the Kiwanis Club at Tuesday's luncheon meeting.

The meeting was an appropriate one.

The club sponsors Junior Safety Patrols throughout the city—Knee-Hi is here to help teach safety, too.

With Knee-Hi to meet the Kiwanians here were her master, Dr. George Brunson, Mrs. Brunson, city police constable Ian Duncan and three youngsters from Monterey School—Ted Pollard, Roger Sparks and Derek Lister.

Austin Curtis, chairman of the club's Junior Safety Patrols Committee, introduced Dr. Brunson and said of his work with children and child psychology: "He wrote the book."

He said Dr. Ballard's sponsors of the Knee-Hi school visits across Canada, should be congratulated for their interest in safety.

Said Dr. Brunson to club members:

"The work you are doing is close to my heart."

He described how he had first instituted the program of training a dog in knowledge safety so it could teach children in turn.

BEST FOR LAST

He told of how he had visited schools all across Canada but when he came here he "saved the best for the last."

"I've never seen anything nicer than the co-operation I have received from the school board, teachers and students alike in Victoria," the former Philadelphia school superintendent said.

The success of this program is due entirely to their co-operation and that of The Victoria Times, station CJVI and the school safety patrols.

He praised the "fine backing" of Const. Duncan in his work with the patrols and added: "He has put his whole heart and soul into safety patrol work."

Knee-Hi demonstrated some of her safety rules to the club members following Dr. Brunson's talk.

Knee-Hi's Safety Ride

Six-year-old Barney Sommers was the envy of pupils at Doncaster School when he went for a ride in safety pup's car at school. Watching youngster and Dr. Ballard's Knee-Hi are (left to right) Linda Carpenter, Sally Fisher and Gail Fisher and Gail Farmer, six-year-olds in grade one. About 600 children attended the demonstration. Although Doncaster School has no Junior Safety Patrol, Saanich police constable Bob Adrian turned up to add some advice about traffic safety to Knee-Hi's program. (Times photo.)

Knee-Hi Hears Safety Pledge

Nearly 300 pupils at McKenzie Avenue School took Knee-Hi's pledge this week but Dr. Ballard's safety terrier took these eight youngsters aside to make sure they remembered the rules. Six-year-olds, they are members of teacher Goldy Holmann's class. Hands raised while repeating the safety rules, youngsters are (left to right): Doreen Bayley, Clive Stokes, Sharon Bates, Julie Garrington, Jean Hemstock, Ross Cumberland, Jean Hemstock and Randy Saly. (Times photo.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Oo-la-la! Thees French
Leepstick Is Magnifique

By PENNY SAVER

Are you one of the women who still applies lipstick to the upper lip then presses her lips together and hopes for the best? Or maybe you get a good coating on your finger and go to work smearing it all over your mouth.

Don't laugh! There are such people! If you happen to be one of them you have probably complained at some time or another about lipstick when it really isn't the lipstick's fault.

It's the way it's applied! Monsieur Paul Baudecroux, originator of the first indelible lipstick, offers this advice to Canadian women: apply your indelible lipstick evenly and gradually while shaping the contour most flattering to your mouth. Do not touch or shape with your finger. Above all, shape upper and lower lips individually without pressing lips together. Finally, remember that the original application is the one which is indelible—second and third applications will come off.

Too Much Is Worse Than Too Little

"Most women apply too many coats of lipstick to their mouth," cautions Mr. Baudecroux, "whereas one evenly applied covering of the desired shade is more satisfactory."

Most important, of course, is the waiting-period of a few minutes after applying indelible lipstick which allows it to set permanently. By allowing sufficient setting time, it is not necessary to blot the mouth with tissues, for with one proper coating there is no surplus lipstick to remove.

So, if you have been in the habit of applying several coats of lipstick, perhaps it is time to select a new, more vivid shade. Apply it evenly from the tube or with a brush to over the lip line completely. Let it set for at least 10 minutes.

Voilà! Your lips are truly kiss-proof. For 50,000,000 French women can't be wrong!

There is one indelible lipstick I know of that has proved exceptionally satisfactory. It is, of course, French.

Don't gasp when I tell you it is priced at $2.50 a tube. This particular indelible lipstick, with average use, will last you a year; at least. Then, when you want a refill you only have to pay $1.50.

When you first apply the color of the lipstick you have selected it is very light, but after it has been on for a couple of minutes it darkens to the right shade.

You might be interested to know that this brand is sold throughout the world. In fact, the accompanying directions with it are printed in six different languages.

I can assure you that it is "indelible." The girl that showed it to me in the store also put a sample smear on the back of my hand.

I've been scrubbing all morning trying to get it off. It won't budge.

C.A.C. Deplores 'Confusion'
In Resale Price Maintenance

TORONTO (CP).—The Canadian Association of Consumers

today expressed concern over what it termed "confusion" created in the public mind regarding the effect of recent legislation banning resale price maintenance.

A statement released at the end of a closed meeting of its board of directors said press comment has been "critical" of the power of the legislation to lower prices.

"This tends to encourage the public to expect few results from an act which as yet has had little time to function and which was not specifically directed to this end," said the C.A.C. "The continually reiterated statements that resale price maintenance legislation will not bring down the cost of living misleads the people as to the true reason for banning this practice which was because it conflicted with the basic principles of our free economy and permitted private manipulations."

Resale price maintenance was discussed during the one-day meeting when delegates also studied reports sent in by the provincial presidents of the 13,000-member organization.

A report from Mrs. C. M. Suggitt of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan's provincial president, told of "thrill" test where women gathered for quilting bees, mending parties or to exchange old clothes. When hungry they are served tea and a cookie.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't Sprout Wings Now;
Do Shoulder Exercises

Too many women anticipate eternity by sprouting wings (shoulder blades which stick out) in this life.

We do much better with a nice straight back on this orb. This usually is not caused by excess weight but by poor posture.

Many women developed round shoulders during their teens when they were growing very rapidly, had new curves and a certain amount of fatigue. It is much easier to correct this condition when you are quite young; however, you can improve your posture even though you may have passed those magic years.

After years of habitually poor posture the chest muscles shorten and the back muscles stretch and become weak. Obviously you must stretch the chest muscles and strengthen the back muscles through exercise.

Try this one.

Stand erect. Let your arms hang in a relaxed manner at your sides. Keep the arms in this position as you pull your shoulders back hard, trying to touch the shoulder blades together. This movement comes naturally from your shoulders. Hold while you count to eight slowly. Relax. Continue.

Do not duck the chin while doing this exercise or allow the hips to swing back. Lift the chin a little, and keep the hips under. Do this ten times a day, morning and night, and work up to 25 times, morning and night.

This exercise will be helpful but you must also try very hard to remember your posture during the rest of the day. Try to keep your spine as straight as possible. You may experience some muscle fatigue at a time because of the unaccustomed work they are doing but keep it up.

If the state of round shoulders is extreme you may not be able to straighten up until you have worked on the shoulder and chest muscles for a while.

Bend the shoulders back to overcome round shoulders.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 7, "Round Shoulders—Flat Bust—Reverse!" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Woman Makes Good In Man's World
Sells Big Machinery; Loves Her Job

CALGARY, Jan. (CP).—Selling heavy machinery and earth-moving equipment to tough-talking engineers and foremen of construction jobs is something that had always been left to the men, but 48-year-old Mrs. E. M. Vye proved it could be done by women—and just as well.

The pleasant, soft-spoken Calgary mother is the only known woman in North America who makes her living as a salesman of the big machines.

It all started 11 years ago when the manager of Wilkinson & McLean Ltd. realized he would need women in his firm to replace the men going into the armed services. He didn't think he could get anybody to sell equipment, so he advertised for a woman who could at least keep in contact with the firm's customers.

Mrs. Vye successfully applied for the job and set about keeping relations good between company and client. Perhaps even to her own surprise, she found herself studying the business and graduating to the sales class.

Since that time she has sold hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of equipment and is one of the firm's most valued representatives.

Mrs. Vye, a widow, took the job in the first place to support herself and her daughter. Now her daughter has married, Mrs. Vye herself is married again, but the machinery business is in her blood.

Making good in a man's world didn't come easy for Mrs. Vye.

"The fact that I was a female was one of the toughest hurdles to overcome," she says. "Engineers and others I had dealings with made no particular attempt to be chivalrous and it was hard to convince them I had as much to offer as any other salesman."

As for selling technique, she gives this pointer:

"What I don't know I admit I don't know. Then I try to find out."

PANCAKE RACE TO BRING NEW FRIENDSHIP

LIBERAL, Kansas, Jan. 30 (CP) — A housewife here wants Mrs. Joe Stalin (if there is such a person) to cook up a pancake race as a means of bringing about better understanding between the United States and Russia. Mrs. Jack Cox wrote a letter to the wife of the Soviet Premier suggesting that since top-level attempts to improve relations have failed, "it is up to the women to pitch in and get the job done."

Whether there is anyone to deliver Mrs. Cox's letter to is uncertain. The Russian premier is reported to be married to a sister of Politburo member Lazar Kaganovich but there has never been an announcement. Stalin had two previous wives. One died during the 1905 revolution and the other died in 1932, believed to have been a suicide after a quarrel with Stalin.

Mills and Mrs. H. A. Young. The picture, first given to the chapter by Mrs. James Baker, is a steel engraving of the famous nurse at the age of 34, and was done by W. Wells in 1854. It shows the famed nurse wearing an evening gown.

Miss Mary Garnet, R.N., who has many friends in this city, recently accepted a position as assistant superintendent at Scottish Rite Hospital in Atlanta, Ga.

Vancouver Island Poet Gives Impressions Of England Gleaned In Lengthy Visit

Melancholy surprise expressed by a London "busman" to Miss Audrey Alexandra Brown, that anyone from this side of the Atlantic could think England "beautiful" reflected not only a prevailing pessimism in the Old Land but also Miss Brown's overflowing sentiment and enthusiasm for the country which she visited for the first time little more than a year ago.

She told the story, to Lake Hill Women's Institute at their first social meeting of the year this week. Introduced by the president, Mrs. F. M. McGregor as "a native daughter of Vancouver Island and one of Canada's most distinguished poets," Miss Brown gave a vivid word-picture of her experiences in the land of her ancestors.

The narrative began and ended at Denman College, the British Women's Institute training-school and holiday-centre at Marcham, near Oxford. Here, as a guest from Canada, she met with the greatest friendliness from Miss Christmas, the charming "head," Mrs. Vernon, J.P., the chairman, and student-body alike, and shared in all the classroom and social activities and expeditions.

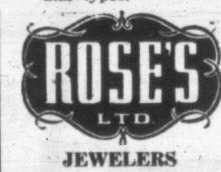

Miss Brown dipped engagingly into the history of the estate, the surrounding countryside with its villages, churches, abbeys, personalities, flowers and birds. An unusual and fascinating part of her talk was devoted to a wonderful week spent at Stratford-on-Avon and the unforgettable series of Shakespearean plays she saw there through the generosity of Lady Tweedsmuir, who showed her many kindnesses during her stay in England. Constantly the speaker referred to spontaneous courtesies shown her by complete strangers. A village shop-girl even supplied the indispensable coupon so she could purchase a longed-for chocolate-bar when Miss Brown found she had forgotten to bring along her ration-book. More than once while she was at Denman Miss Brown, as a Canadian, was singled out for some special attention; a lecturer at one of the final classes concluded his talk with verses which sounded strangely familiar. They were lines from one of her poems. The talk was received with enthusiastic applause, Miss E. Bruce moving the vote of thanks. Afternoon tea followed, the conveners, Mesdames A. S. Moffat and E. Glover being specially complimented by Mrs. R. F. Myles for the attractive setting, a bowl of bell-heather and candles tied with plaid ribbon, in honor of Robert Burns' anniversary. Mrs. McGregor, presided at the tea table.

Costume Jewelry Makes The Grade With Parisiennes

PARIS. (Reuters) — Parisiennes who have never worn costume jewelry before have suddenly become conscious of the smart effect of its concentrated glitter on dark winter clothes.

Pearls and rhinestones set the keynote, supplemented by endless variations of sparkling crystal and colored glass—a kaleidoscope of ornate clips, necklaces and earrings.

Couturier Jacques Fath favors large rhinestone arrows piercing the shoulder of a black sweater. Newest trends feature blatantly imitation stones set like real jewelry with silver settings, invisible prongs and skillful jewel cuts and planing. Using colors to play up the season's couture shades, emerald, sapphire and ruby are duplicated in inexpensive glass. Aquamarine, amethyst and amber stones are both used and extensively imitated. Bronze and gunmetal pearls are smart with the new dark greys and the range of brown tones.

Pearls continue to be popular, necklaces ranging from one to eight strands. Color combinations include various shades of the same hue, or feature contrasting tones. Bronze and amber pearls are effectively intertwined with white ones, or may be interspersed with bits of clear crystal.

Such objects as champagne corks, gambling chips and nuts have gate-crashed the jewelry scene, especially on chunky collars or charm bracelets.

Finally, there is the latest thing in finger nails—which are slip-covered for evening wear with gold filigree frames, highlighted with twinkling diamond chips.

If you haven't tasted a dry apple pie you've got a taste treat in store for you. Clip cores from an eight-ounce package dried apples. Cook apples slowly in 3½ cups water about half an hour. Then stir in one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon cinnamon and pinch salt. Turn into pastry-lined eight-inch pie pan. Sprinkle with lemon juice and dot with margarine. Cover with top pastry and bake in hot oven 30 minutes.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

Watch For New Fabrics As Well As The Styles

By DAWN VAN NORMAN

While winter is still clearly marked on the calendar, fashion experts are lining up their plans for spring. This new year is bringing an almost record crop of new, both in the fabric and fashion field. 1952 fabrics are worth watching, for they are not only beautiful but many will be found to be time, money and worry savers.

With nylon becoming more and more of an indispensable item in today's living, it is not surprising that it too has some new surprises for spring. For one, there is a new medium sheer crinkled nylon which is not only fragile and beautiful in appearance, but is exceptionally strong, cleans with a swish of soap suds, and because of its permanent crinkle eliminates ironing problems. It will be appearing in many forms this spring and summer, but one of the most evident will be crisp, fresh blouses.

Busy housewives and career girls alike will welcome this new color.

A blouse that is fashion-right, light and soft to the touch, is pictured above. The style is not drastically different than we saw last season, but the material is wrinkle-resistant. It launders well and needs no ironing, absorbs moisture easily and fits the bill for the pay-check girl.

In all orlon or part-orton acrylic fibre fabric, this is the blouse for the full-time, working wardrobe. It can be laundered at night.

Delicate lace frames attractive panel of this blouse for spring.

along with lingerie, and turn up next morning ready for another day without benefit of ironing.

The new orlon or part-orton blouses are done in basket weaves, in shantung, in crepes, in taffetas. The fabric is light weight but shape retention is inherent in the fibres.

As usual with the turn of the season, we will look forward to new styles, but this year, in addition we will have these styles created in new fabrics that will more than do them justice.

Shy Girl, A Sports Writer, Now Finds Possibly Rich Mine On Farm

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (CP)—Rose Gibson hopes her 221-acre farm at nearby Dawson's Point may turn into a mine.

Early this year the Mining Geophysics Corporation took an option on the land which lies alongside Lake Temiskaming. Mining men say there are indications of base metals in the area.

However, "nobody will know what's there till they start diamond drilling," says Rose, a north country newspaper woman.

Miss Gibson is tall with brown eyes. Her news-beat includes New Liskeard, Halleybury, Cobalt, for The Kirkland Lake Northern Daily News. She also has worked on newspapers at North Bay, Timmins and Rouyn.

Sportsmen of Northern Ontario call her the best sports writer north of Toronto. She's also an excellent photographer.

Ruth says she got into newspaper work "because I was shy and I thought that was a good way to cure it."

STARTED AT TIMMINS
She saw an advertisement for a reporter at The Timmins Press, applied, and got the job. Ten months later she went to North Bay where she worked for two years on The Daily Nugget.

Then came four years at The Temiskaming Speaker, New Liskeard.

But Rose says she "sort of came into my own as a sports writer at Rouyn-Noranda Press, where I was designated sports editor, with my name on the page."

At the beginning she ran into plenty of opposition.

The manager of the Rouyn Flashers, Quebec intermediate hockey champions, met her, inquired whether she thought they played hockey with powder puffs.

Your family will love these hamburger stacks. Shape a pound of hamburger into 8 thin patties. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put together in pairs with this filling. Combine ¼ cup dry bread crumbs with 3 tablespoons milk, ¼ cup each chopped ripe olives and chopped onion and 3 tablespoons parsley. Season to taste with salt and chili powder. Bake stacks in hot oven about 15 to 20 minutes.

Silvered roasted almonds and melted butter make a wonderful topping for green vegetables like broccoli, green beans or asparagus. Toss with the vegetables just before serving so the almonds stay crisp and crunchy. To silver the almonds easily, do them when they're hot.

She wasn't permitted on the bus the first time the team had an out-of-town engagement.

However that all changed. She came to be regarded as the team's mascot and traveled everywhere with it.

When The Rouyn-Noranda Press changed hands Rose moved around the corner to run The Northwest Quebec Bureau of The Northern Daily News. That was her last post before taking over a similar bureau here.

Tourists Still Biggest Business

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

"There has been so much talk lately about Canada's, and especially British Columbia's, gigantic industrial boom that there is some danger of forgetting what still remains the biggest business of all: the tourist industry."

In terms of hard cash to Canadians, the tourist trade is far greater than lumbering, mining, fishing, pulp and paper or any other single industry.

For Victoria and Vancouver Island the tourist dollar is even more important than elsewhere. Victoria has the largest per capita tourist trade in all Canada. Canada's greatest single commodity export is now newsprint. Newsprint business brought Canada an estimated $675,000,000 in 1951. But the tourist trade brought in more money last year, close to $750,000,000. Obviously, it's big business, the biggest in all Canada.

With these facts in mind, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce is getting set to help boost the tourist trade this year.

Through the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau, the chamber fires the first promotion gun with a motor caravan across the island, complete with all the trimmings, bands, speeches, good-will tours, publicity and educational conferences and lectures. The object is to publicize the importance of the tourist trade and assist in providing greater facilities and further development of the business throughout Vancouver Island.

The safari takes off early in April on a three-day trip, attended by leading civic, business and industrial representatives.

"Canada is vulnerable to U.S. tariff policy, which can fairly be described as capricious," said James J. Duncan, president of Massey-Harris, in an address in London, England, Tuesday.

Your Imperial Life man presents his Company's Annual Report

Behind the success of the life insurance company is the sales representative who calls on you - your "life insurance man". It is fitting that Imperial Life representatives should present their Company's report because -

- It will be their privilege to inform the holders of participating policies that The Imperial Life has made provision for an increase in policy dividends.
- Through their efforts, benefit payments amounting to $10,338,622 were made during 1951. This raises to over $211,000,000 the total of the benefits disbursed to policyholders and their dependents since the Company was started.
- Chiefly as a result of their friendly and impartial advice to clients, $79,150,094 of additional protection in the form of insurance and annuities was provided in the year - a new record. It brings the total in force in the Company to $648,564,848.
- The savings which they have encouraged policyholders to make over the years through premium-payments work in three ways: (1) They build for individual and family security now and in the future. (2) Because the savings made are of a long-term nature, they help fight inflation. (3) Assets, which result from savings and interest earnings and which assure the ability of the Company to meet its future obligations to policyholders, now amount to $77,007,124 and are largely invested in loans to governments, municipalities, corporations and residential property owners. Thus they help to build for better living in the countries in which The Imperial Life operates.

Ask for a copy of the complete Annual Report. Your Imperial Life man or any of the Company's Branch Offices, will be glad to give you one.

Steel Leads Stock Trade In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Steel shares were in demand on the stock market today but other sections of the market were quiet with prices mixed and the changes small.

Activity simmered down considerably after a fairly brisk start and the volume ran around 1,600,000 shares.

Steels moved ahead fractions to around a point but in late trading backed away a bit from the best prices of the day.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Youngstown all moved ahead. Railroad stocks remained steady but enjoyed none of the activity of yesterday.

Canadian issues were unchanged to higher. On the curb Lake Shore was down 1/4, Grand Yellowknife and Royalite Oil remained unchanged.

Toronto Active

TORONTO, Jan. 30 (CP)—Stock market prices brought gains and losses into balance today toward the session's close.

Trading was active as western oils continued to attract most speculative interest. A few lower-priced, base metals and penny stocks, however, also showed large turnover. Industrial dealings spread slowly from leading issues and boosted volume for the session to about 3,000,000 shares.

Finance, agriculture, steels and banks formed industrials' strong sections with a majority of fractional advances. Retail stores drew firm support but textiles weakened while foods and liquors dipped sharply.

Senior golds showed few changes. Secondary issues made little headway in penny dealings.

Vancouver Down Turn

VANCOUVER, Noon close. In active trading on the early session today some western oils slipped back as profit taking on earlier rise made itself felt.

Britania was off 10 cents to $4.90; Calmont dropped back 25 cents to $2.05 and Calnorth slipped two cents to $1.26.

Gains were registered by mines, Quesno up 3 cents to 63 cents; Silver Standard ahead 4 cents to $2.59.

Industrial were steady and unchanged.

Montreal Mixed

MONTREAL, Jan. 30 (CP)—From a slightly firmer opening, stock prices turned mixed near the close today on the Montreal stock exchange and curb market. Steels displayed a wide list of advances. Senior metals were slightly higher.

Papers, senior oils and miscellaneous industrials held advances and declines in balance. Utilities, beverages, carriers and banks fell off slightly.

Mines and western oils continued narrow and mixed. Merrill Island, Western Ashley and Toronto American were higher. Royran, Consolidated, Cordasun and Gaspe eased.

Industrial volume was 62,300 shares traded and mines had a turnover of 255,300 shares.

London Steady

LONDON, Jan. 30 (Reuters)—The stock exchange opinion of the economies announced yesterday by the British government.

Home stocks benefited in the early stages from some bear covering, but gains in gilt-edged and industrials were not always maintained.

Final prices were unchanged to slightly higher, with those issued connected with armaments and export trade generally better.

There was a marked switching of active interest to overseas stocks. In the foreign section German government loans encountered a strong demand to close several points up on the day. There was a better tone to Japanese.

Bear covering and some speculative buying helped the oil section, which showed a long list of improvements. There was also a revival of speculative buying of shipings.

Hopes of a favorable revision of the South African taxation formula gave renewed firmness to gold shares.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Stock closings:

Government's Tetanus Fight
Aid Uncertain

Extent of provincial government financial aid to Nanaimo lockjaw victim George Raines will depend on how much Nanaimo citizens are willing to contribute individually to the cause, Health Minister Douglas Turnbull explained today.

A public subscription drive is already under way in the up-island centre and $250 has been contributed.

Raines, who is 22, will face heavy medical expenses when he recovers from his illness. Anti-tetanus serum, which had to be flown to Nanaimo from Toronto, will cost about $2,400 alone and there will be doctor and hospital bills on top of that.

Health Minister Turnbull said he had discussed Raines' case with George S. Pearson, M.L.A. for Nanaimo, and Andrew Whisker, M.L.A. for Cowichan-Newcastle.

"I assured Mr. Whisker and Mr. Pearson that I am sympathetic towards the case, and that I would recommend to the cabinet that the provincial government, through the health branch, consider a grant towards the cost of the antitoxin, providing the people of Nanaimo and area give substantial support to the public drive for funds," Turnbull said.

NO INSURANCE

Raines is not covered by B.C. Hospital Insurance since he is substantially in arrears with premium payments.

Turnbull wanted it made clear any grant the government might make would be toward cost of the anti-toxin only and would have nothing to do with the hospital insurance service.

The minister pointed out the provincial health branch provided immunization injections against tetanus without charge.

FIND ANCIENT TOMBS

KHOSSOA, Crete (Reuters)—Bulldozers levelling a site for a sanatorium near the ancient palace of Minos, uncovered tombs containing 3,500-year-old Minoan spears and daggers in perfect preservation. - (b) 250 pcs. No. 22 gauge galvanized steel plate, 4' wide x 120' long.
- (c) 250 pcs. 1/4" sponge rubber, each 6' wide x 120' long.

Delivery f.a.b. Victoria by April 30th, 1952. Envelopes to be plainly marked as "TENDERS".

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Churchill Enjoyed
Free Boat Trip

LONDON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill disclosed Tuesday that he had a free trip to New York and back aboard the liner Queen Mary. A Labor member of the House of Commons demanded to know how much the prime minister's trip to Washington and Ottawa cost. Churchill replied that both he and Foreign Secretary Eden traveled as guests of the Cunard Company.

Miss Williamson, who sobbed as the judge admonished her, sued to collect insurance for the two stolen items.

"There can be no doubt" that she knew of Levy's activities, the judge said, adding that she is "morally guilty of larceny" in accepting his gifts, including a Cadillac, jewels, furs and spending money. But he still awarded her the $2,500.

Levy, a $75-a-week textile salesman, is on 10-year probation and has promised to repay the $53,000.

Irked Judge Admonishes 'Conniving Cleopatra'

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (CP)—Rosemary Williamson, attractive brunette showgirl, was awarded $2,500 Tuesday by a judge who called her a conniving "Cleopatra" who didn't deserve a cent.

The money was an insurance award for Miss Williamson's stolen fur coat and diamond ring—part of the gifts lavished on her by an admirer, Sidney Levy, who swindled his business associates of $53,000 to spend on her.

Summing up the case, Judge James McNally said it was a case of: "Boy wants girl and girl wants diamonds, jewelry, furs and motor cars, and consequently larceny, embezzlement, forgery and romance walk hand in hand along 51st Street."

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burr

Blacky the Crow sat in the top of a tall tree in a piece of woodland he seldom visited. A small brook flowed through that woodland. It was frozen over, except in places where the water was too swift to freeze. Beside one of these, two small people in brown coats were quarrelling. One was Billy Mink and the other was a well-grown young mink whom Blacky guessed was one of Billy's well-grown children. Billy had just pushed the other away from a small piece of meat that lay close to the water's edge.

"What did you do that for?" snarled the young mink, backing off a little.

"Don't touch it!" commanded Billy Mink. "Keep away from it! Don't go near it, if you do, you'll be sorry."

Billy took two or three steps toward the young mink. The latter backed off still farther. "It's mine," he snarled. "You are driving me away because you want it yourself."

"It isn't yours. It isn't mine. It isn't anybody's—yet. And I hope it won't be anybody's," declared Billy. His eyes glowed red as with his back arched he stood behind the little piece of meat and the young mink.

"Why?" asked the young mink. He fairly spat out the question.

"Because whoever tries to pick up that piece of meat is going to wish he never had seen it," declared Billy Mink.

"Why is he?" the young mink persisted.

"Because he is going to be terribly hurt, and he won't live to ever eat anything more," declared Billy.

Blacky the Crow flew down to a low branch of the tree he had been sitting in. "Caw, caw, caw. So you think there is something wrong with that piece of meat," said he to Billy Mink.

"I don't just think so," said Billy. "I know so."

"What is it?" asked Blacky.

"What is what?" asked Billy.

"What is wrong with that meat? It looks alright to me," replied Blacky.

"Well, it isn't alright," said Billy. "If you were to pick it up, you would find out."

"Do you know who put it there?" Billy asked.

"Yes," replied Blacky. "It was one of those two-legged folks we all hate."

"Then you ought to know what's wrong with it," declared Billy Mink.

"Well, what is it?" asked Blacky.

"There's a trap hidden there, and how I do hate traps!" snarled Billy Mink.

Bonuses For Uranium Ore Of $250,000

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Jan. 30 (UP).—The Atomic Energy Commission said today that it paid more than $250,000 in bonus benefits last year to stimulate production of uranium ore.

The A.E.C. said the payments, made under a bonus program announced last June, increased the income of many small mining operators. They also "stepped up" production of atomic raw material.

Nearly one-third of the 70 mines certified for bonus payments had not produced uranium ore previously.

The end of last year, the A.E.C.'s raw materials office here had received about 190 bonus applications. More than a third have been acted on and the rest are being processed.

The bonus, which is in addition to the price for ore, is offered for new production from comparatively low-grade deposits.

It is not to be confused with the $10,000 premium offered in 1948 for domestic discovery and production of high-grade uranium ore. No one has yet qualified for this bonus.

Navy P.O.'s Turn Over $100 Cheque To Youthful Leper

The petty officers' mess fund at H.M.C.S. Naden will soon be $100 poorer—and a 14-year-old boy at Bentinck Island leper colony will be richer in the pursuit of his hobby.

One of the P.O.'s heard that the lad spent most of his lonely hours rowing around in a small skiff, and he had the idea of starting him on the road to a larger boat. He talked it up among his messmates, and the result is a cheque to be used for plans and material for a new and larger craft.

Presentation of the cheque will be made to Mrs. H. R. Lewis, R.N., resident nurse, by P.O. Stanley Birch, president of the P.O.'s mess.

Pilot Stuck To Plane Until Crew Out Safely

TOKYO, Jan. 30 (UP).—Crew members of a U.S. Air Force B-29 which exploded in flight near Tokyo recently told today of their pilot's heroism in keeping the plane from going down in populated areas.

Col. Delmore P. Wood of Lodi, Calif., the pilot, was the last man to leave the stricken bomber. He leaped out as the plane exploded and cleared the falling plane by only a few feet.

Capt. Julian C. Meadows, co-pilot, of Columbus, Ga., said the plane was headed for a bombing mission in Korea, carrying 10 tons of bombs and a full load of gasoline.

"About 20 minutes after the takeoff, while we were climbing, fire broke out in one of the engines. We tried everything to put it out but it just got bigger. Colonel Wood ordered us to stand by for a bail-out and then headed for Tokyo Bay, where we intended to drop our bombs. The fire spread so rapidly that we knew we couldn't make it."

Wood turned back toward an unpopulated area six miles west of the bay.

The bombardier, Lieut. Raymond M. La Jeunesse of Highland Park, Mich., dumped the bombs into deserted fields after first deactivating the missiles.

Wood then ordered the crew to parachute to safety.

Within seconds only Wood and Flight Engineer T/Sgt. Clarence L. Bice of Raymond, Va., were left in the plane. But the bomber was now over another populated area. Wood told Rice to bail out.

Wood stuck with the plane until he got it over a wooded area. As he jumped out, the plane exploded.

Three of the crew sustained minor injuries when they landed.

Chinese Fly One Way Only

Air lanes across the Pacific are practically one-way streets as far as the Chinese are concerned.

Canadian Pacific Airlines traffic summaries show a total of 2,313 Chinese flown to Canada in the period July, 1949, and December, 1951.

During that time only a handful of Chinese flew the other way. And they were Chinese-Canadians, going back to the old country to acquire wives—after which they hurriedly flew back here again, according to C. H. Low, consultant on Oriental affairs for C.P.A., himself a Canadian citizen of Chinese ancestry.

U.S. Will Build New Rocket Ships

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP).—The navy let a contract Tuesday for the first of a new line of rocket ships designed for close support of beachhead attacks.

The award went to the Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Company of Seattle. Rapid-fire rocket launchers will be the main armament of these 1,200-ton ships.
